ACADEMIC LIFE

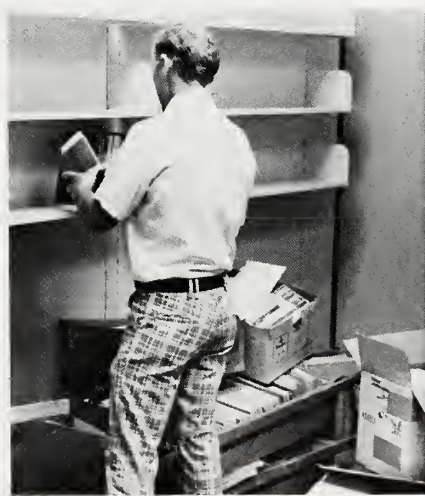

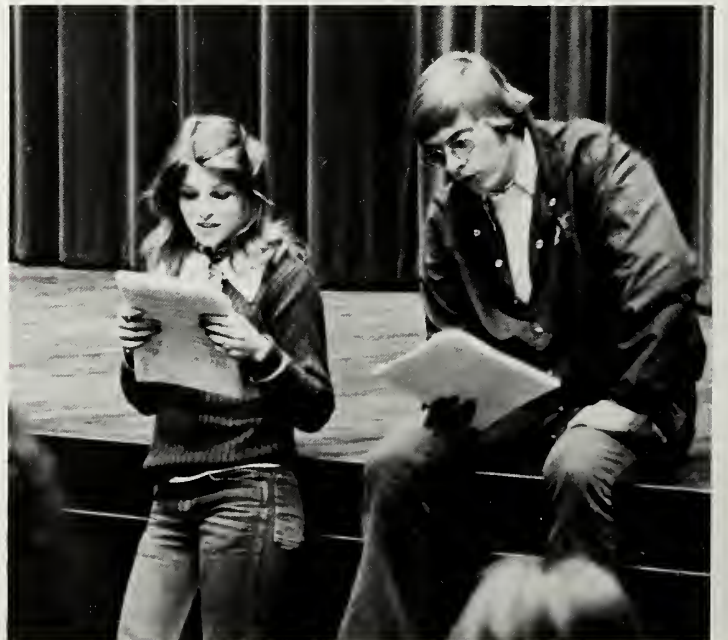

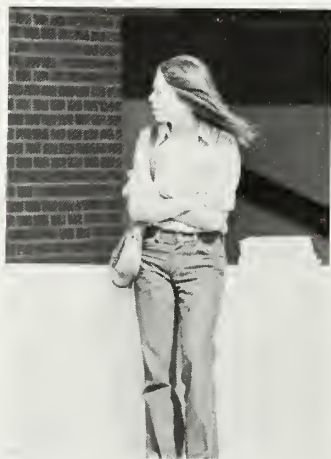

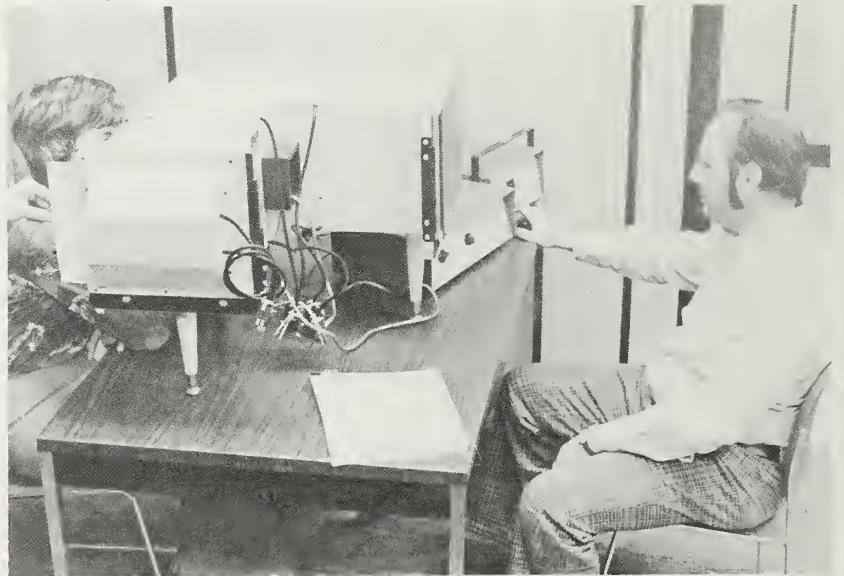

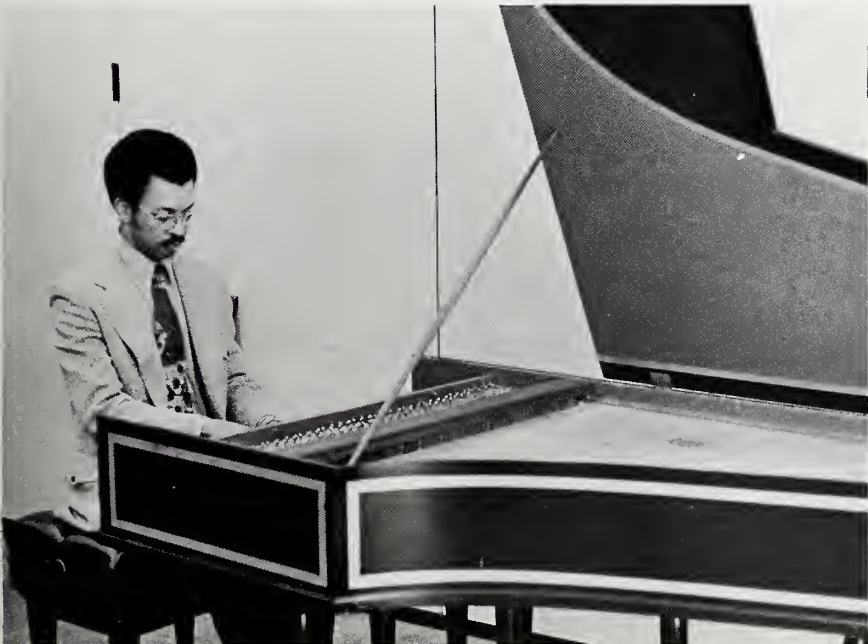

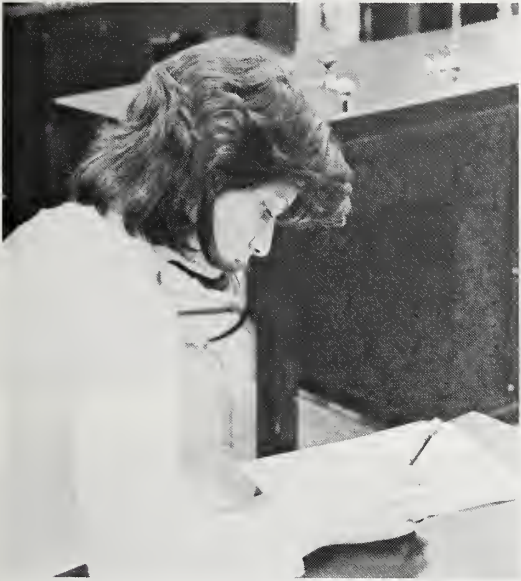

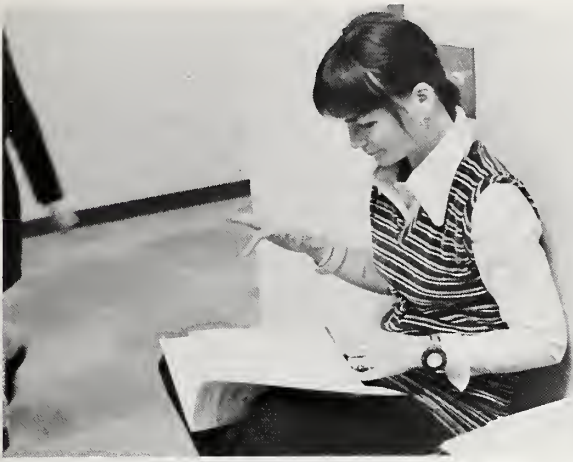

FOUNDER'S HALL

Named for those people who were instrumental in the creation of Francis Marion College, Founders Hall was begun in May of 1973 and occupied in the fall of 1975. The College's first classroom building, the two-story structure is designed to accommodate all present and anticipated instructional needs as well as provide facilities for programs ranging from small seminars to large lectures. Housing most of the College's academic departments, the structure was officially dedicated on June 29, 1975.

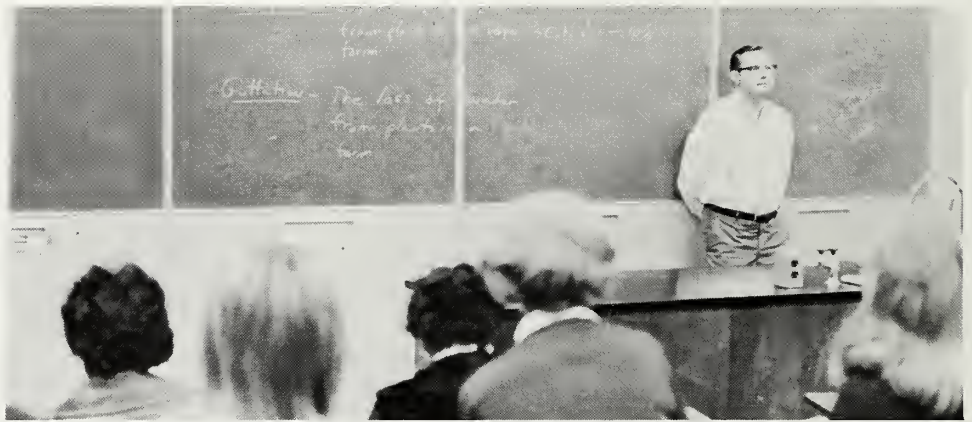

BIOLOGY DEPARTMENT

The Biology Department offered an extremely successful summer marine biology course. The course, which included five field trips to the coast, had tremendous appeal for upper-level biology students.

The Biology Department, like other departments at Francis Marion, is responsive to student interest. On the basis of requests from students in a senior genetics course, an accredited seminar on human genetics was presented.

The Department made extensive use of film loops and other visual aids in its offerings, especially its introductory courses.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION AND ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

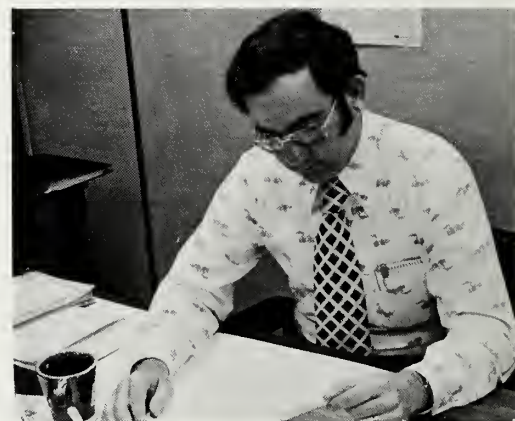

In view of the current economic situation, the Business Administration and Economics Department was extraordinarily busy during 1974-1975. More students elected business administration and economics as a major or took courses offered by the department to keep abreast of current conditions. Outside organizations, including newspapers, sought information relating to the economy. The Department was busy but well-prepared to cope with the demands.

Dr. James R. Rhinehart and Mr. Duane P. Myers studied industrial development in the State, with particular attention to why it occurs and what affects it. Mr. Lawrence M. Glisson taught a new course on transportation and business logistics. Mr. Donald E. Kelley coordinated seminars on small business initiation and management, income tax preparation, marketing and finance, and the economy.

CHEMISTRY AND PHYSICS DEPARTMENT

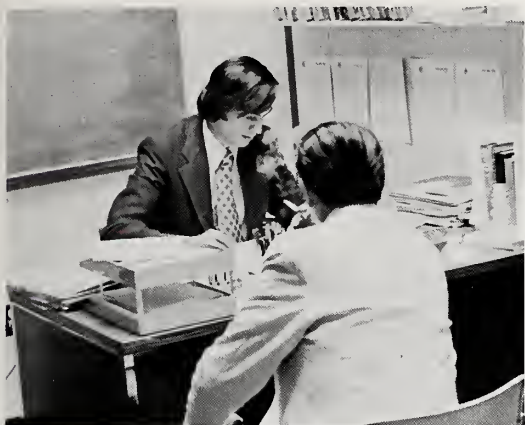

The Chemistry instructors attended the Southeastern Meeting of the American Chemical Society, where Dr. Richard W. Henderson read a paper. Dr. William H. Breazeale, Jr. is presently serving as Chairman-elect of the South Carolina chapter of the American Chemical Society. The Physics instructors attended the South Carolina meeting of the Southeastern American Physical Society.

Dr. Henderson worked with three students on research projects: David Andrews worked with leaching lead from ceramic items, David Strom finished research in radical chemistry, and Danny Decamps started research into chemical effects on bacteria.

The purchase of various items of equipment gained for the Department a stature equal to any other in the Southeast.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

For a student to be approved as a teacher under the previous system utilized by South Carolina, he had to complete a list of courses chosen by the State. During 1974-1975 the Approved Program Approach to Teacher Certification replaced the earlier approach. This program allows each college to establish its own certification requirements. The Education Department is now approved in Early Childhood Education, Elementary Education, Biology, Chemistry, English, French, History, Mathematics, Political Science, Sociology, and Spanish.

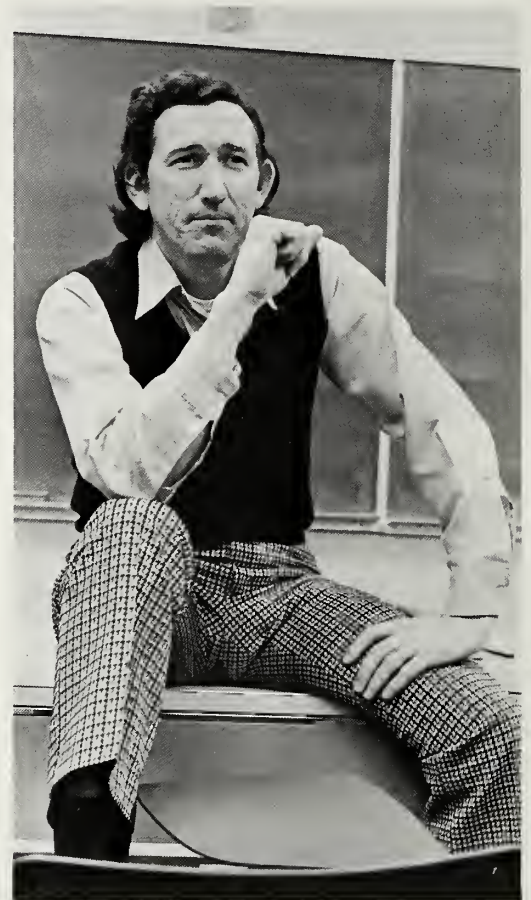

A workshop was held as a refresher experience for past education graduates of the College. An Education Laboratory was established to provide exposure to teaching aids for students in methods' courses.

And for the first time a Master's Degree was offered by Francis Marion in education.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

The English Department, under the guidance of Dr. James W. Dewsnap, has successfully continued presenting film versions of great literary works for local high school students. The 1974-1975 schedule included HENRY V, JULIUS CAESAR, LORD OF THE FLIES, and BILLY BUDD.

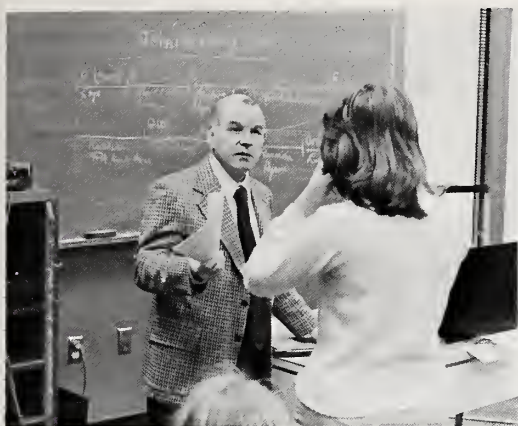

Mr. Robert Parham, was chosen by the South Carolina Arts Commission for the Poet-in-the-Schools Program. Mr. Parham gave week-long, informal creative poetry seminars in various high schools throughout the state.

Offered for the first time was a course in Black Literature, which was taught by Miss Candace Phipps. Also offered for the first time was a course for superior students. Students were invited to participate in the seminar taught by Dr. David J. Burt.

New to the Department for the year was Mr. Clarence P. Huggins.

FINE ARTS DEPARTMENT

The Fine Arts Department sponsored numerous recitals by faculty members and guest artists.

Five shows by art students were scheduled in Smith College Center. Miss Cathy E. Cranford staged two shows of her work, and Mr. Steven F. Gately presented a show at Coker College and exhibited his work at Clemson University.

The 47-member Francis Marion College Chorus, directed by Dr. Adrian R. Ketcham, presented fall and spring concerts. Ten students from the Chorus formed the Francis Marion Ensemble, which performed at concerts and by invitation.

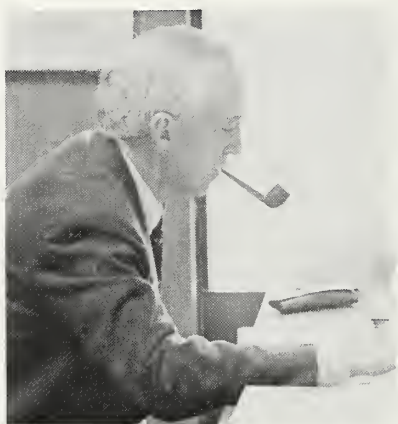

The Francis Marion College Theatre produced three plays, "The Skin of Our Teeth," "The Lion in Winter," and "Harvey."

The Francis Marion Wind Ensemble directed by Mr. J. Franklin West, performed a concert each semester.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT

During the summer of 1975 Dr. Joseph T. Stukes, the new Chairman of the History Department, led a European History in Europe study. Students earned three or six hours credit while touring six European nations.

Two courses were also added to the curriculum-- The History of Black America and The Georgian History of England. These new courses are forerunners of changes taking place on the basis of a comprehensive department-wide study during the year that took into account student interest and departmental goals and standards.

The Department built a bridge into the communities of the Pee Dee through a weekly series of articles in FLORENCE MORNING NEWS by different history instructors. Special-interest seminars were also offered for students and the general public.

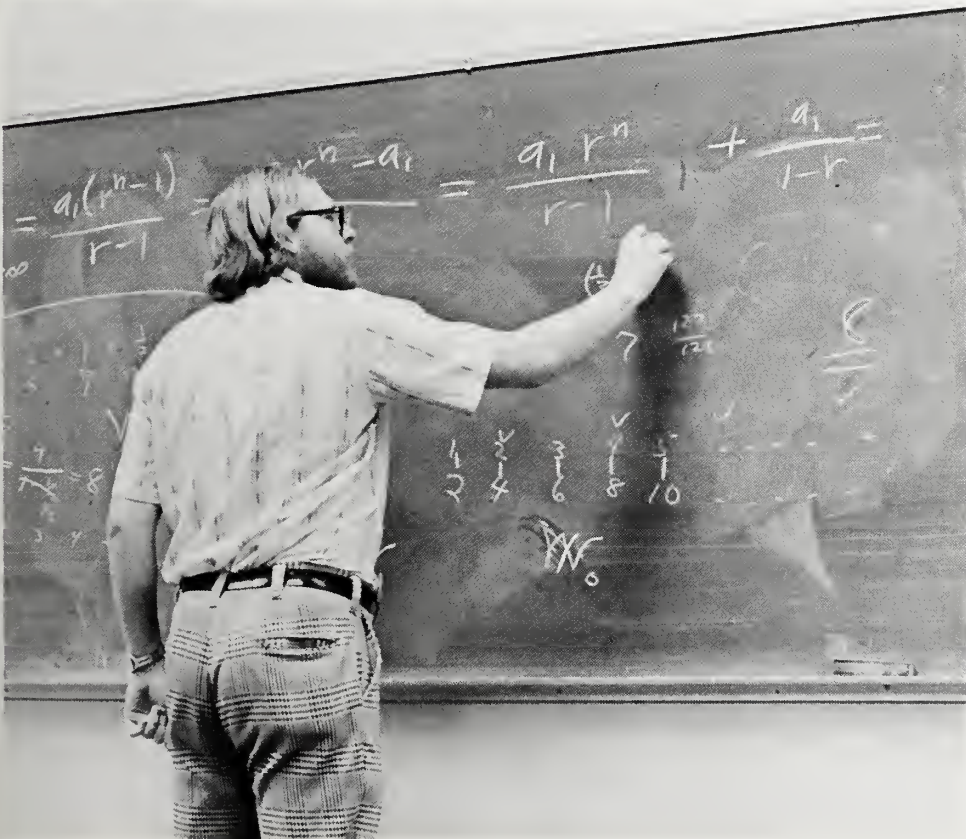

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

The Mathematics Department did some switching around during 1974-1975. Statistics I and Basic Concepts I and II were renumbered as freshman courses. In the words of Dr. Jack W. Smith, Department Chairman, "They're basically the same, just not so frightening."

Two new graduate mathematics courses were offered. Both were courses with education emphasis taught by mathematicians: Problems in Teaching Algebra and Elementary Mathematics.

Dr. Osvaldo Marrero, a researcher in the field of combinatorics, served as Guest Lecturer at the College of Charleston. Dr. James R. Ramey, Jr., Dr. Roger W. Allen, Jr., and Mr. C. Leonard Zucker did research in the field of analysis.

MODERN LANGUAGES DEPARTMENT

The Modern Languages Department feels it plays an important role at Francis Marion. A substantial part of the College purpose, ". . . understanding the world about them . . .," is fulfilled by the Department's attempt to provide knowledge relating to customs and traditions of other cultures. Dr. George D. Crow pointed out that employees need a basic command of foreign language as businesses expand into the international realm.

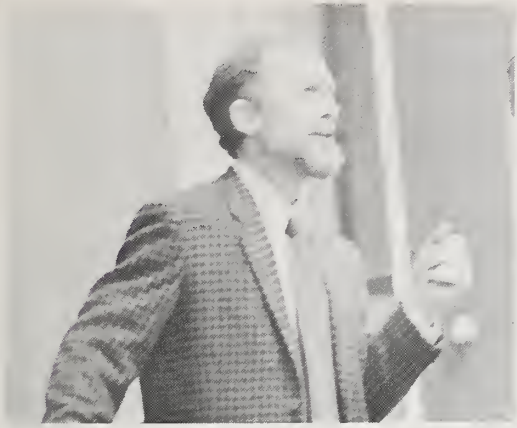

The Department increased cooperation with area high schools. There have been special visits to Francis Marion by high school classes with basic interest in languages.

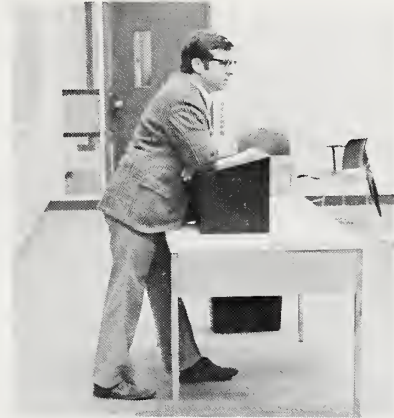

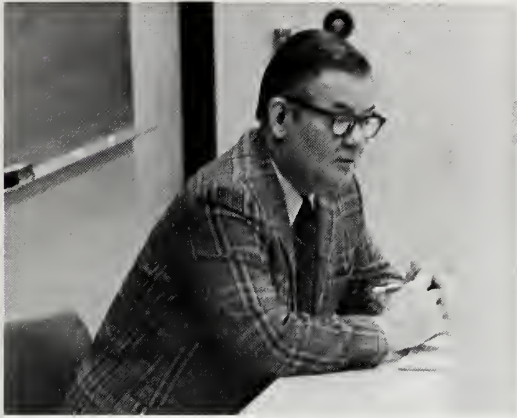

The Department expanded its inventory of audio and visual teaching aids. Emphasis is being placed on cassette teaching material.

Dr. Joseph A. James had a book published by the University of North Carolina Press.

POLITICAL SCIENCE AND GEOGRAPHY DEPARTMENT

The Political Science Department, chaired by Dr. Neal D. Thigpen, has experienced tremendous growth as a major. 1974-1975 saw three new courses--Ethnic and Minority Group Politics, Modern Political Ideologies, and Latin American Politics--and a new instructor--Miss Eileen L. Kirley--added to the Department.

The Department operated its program to meet student needs. Political Science 103 included significant emphasis on careers in the political science field.

Dr. Harlan G. Hawkins and Dr. Dick R. Laird attended several national professional meetings. Dr. Roderick A. Stamey attended the Southern Political Science Convention in New Orleans.

Dr. Thigpen was appointed to the Governor's committee to study state election laws and is Vice-Chairman of the South Carolina Republican Party.

PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT

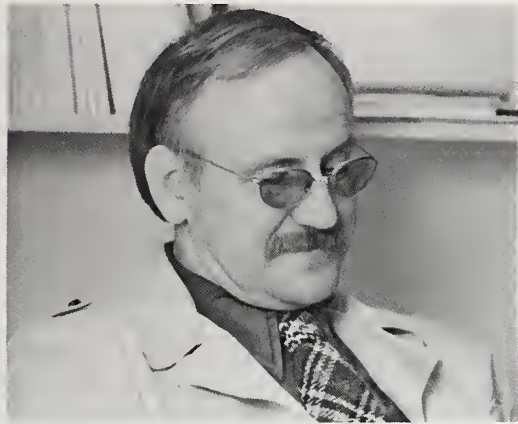

Groundwork for paraprofessional training to be offered jointly by the Psychology and Sociology Departments was laid during 1974-1975.

An article by Dr. Lois A. Hoff, Department Chairman, was accepted by the JOURNAL OF COMPARATIVE AND PHYSIOLOGICAL PSYCHOLOGY. Dr. Jesse J. Jordan and Dr. Douglas A. Mandra had a paper accepted by the Southeastern Psychological Association. Dr. Jordan and Dr. Gary W. Hanson participated in a seminar on the changing American family.

Dr. Hanson read a paper before the Southeastern Psychological Association Convention. He also served as Training Director for Hotline and as a consultant to the Comprehensive Mental Health Center. Dr. Hoff and Dr. Hanson served as members of the Board of the Mental Health Association.

SOCIOLOGY AND PHILOSOPHY DEPARTMENT

Webster's Dictionary defines sociology as "the science of human society" And the Francis Marion Sociology and Philosophy Department covers the area well. A very important innovation during 1974-1975 was initiation of paraprofessional training designed to prepare students who plan careers in "helping agencies." New to the Department were Miss Sandra A. Long, Miss H. Susan Cloninger, and Dr. Richard C. Brunk.

Dr. Donald R. Bailey read a paper entitled "The Burned Out Liberal: Casualty in Civil Rights" at the AKD Sociological Research Symposium and submitted eight papers for publication. Miss Long also read a paper on "The Beauty Pageant as Ritual" at the same meeting.

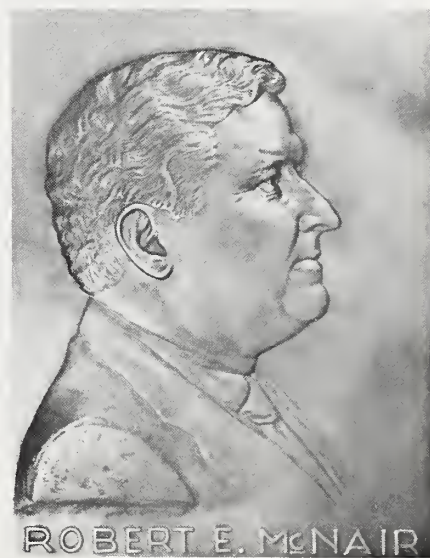

During the year the Department offered seminars on the family and aging. In addition, Dr. W.L. Birch was elected President of the South Carolina Council on Family Relations.

AWARDS DAY

Award's Day for 1974-1975 featured remarks by the Honorable Robert E. McNair as well as presentation of awards by the College's twelve departments. With a perfect 4.0 average for all four years, Mary Jo Hoskins Taylor was the recipient of the Francis Marion Scholastic Achievement Award. Added to the program of 1974-1975 was the FMC Pee Dee History Award, which was given to Francis Barron Cameron. Students who attained Dean's List status as well as those designated as Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities were recognized. The program concluded with presentation of Special Student Life awards. Following the program, the bas relief of Robert E. McNair at McNair Science Building was unveiled.

FALL COMMENCEMENT

On December 20, the College held its first Fall Commencement Exercises. At this time one hundred and fifty persons received degrees. Dr. John W. Baker, Dean of the College, was the speaker. After his address, Dean Baker presented the candidates, President Smith conferred the degrees, and Dr. J. Howard Stokes of the Board of Trustees presented the diplomas.

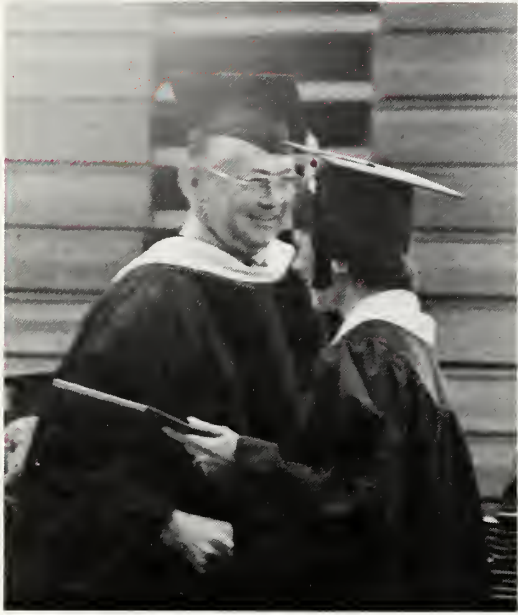

SPRING COMMENCE- MENT

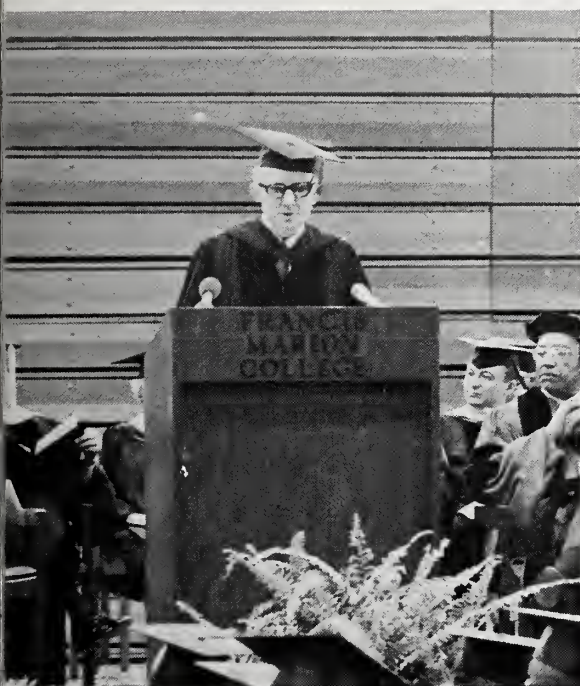

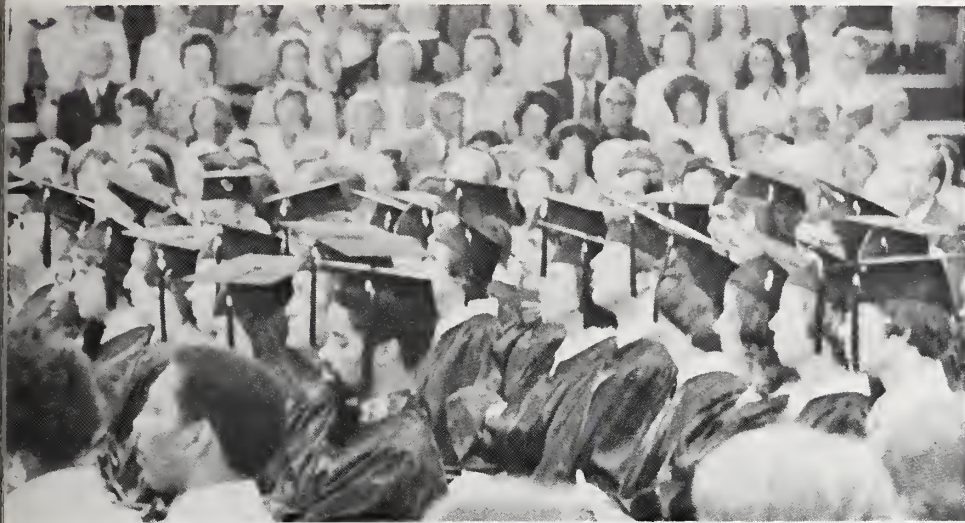

Fourth Commencement Exercises on May 10 concluded Francis Marion's academic year. Held in the Gymnasium of Smith College Center, the annual affair was presided over by President Walter Douglas Smith. Included on the program was Sandra L. Jenkinson, President of the Senior Class, who brought greetings from the Senior Class.

In delivering the main address, Dr. Hugh C. Bailey noted the pride and commitment of those at Francis Marion and challenged the College and all educated people to maintain high standards of intellect as well as a concern for the community. A total of one hundred and seventy-two degrees were awarded. Of this total one hundred and fifty-eight were bachelor's degrees and fourteen were master's degrees. In addition, M. Maceo Nance, Jr., President of South Carolina State College, and Patrick Chesley Smith, State Auditor, were conferred with honorary Doctor of Humanities degrees.

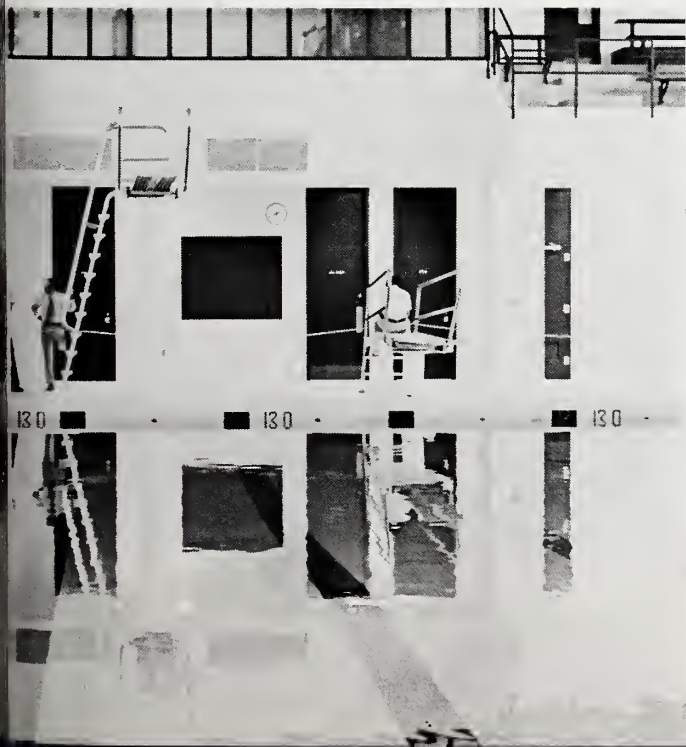

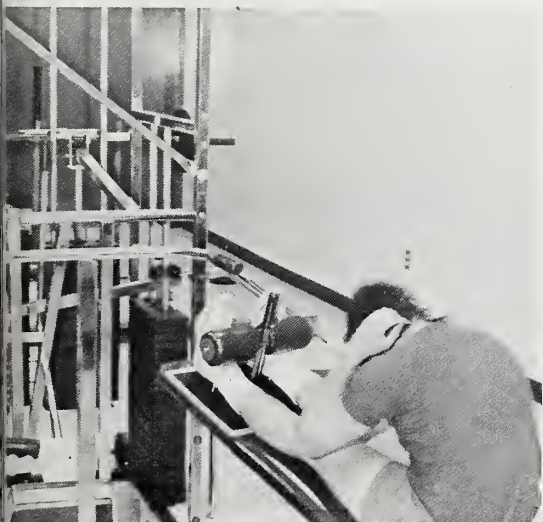

STUDENT LIFE

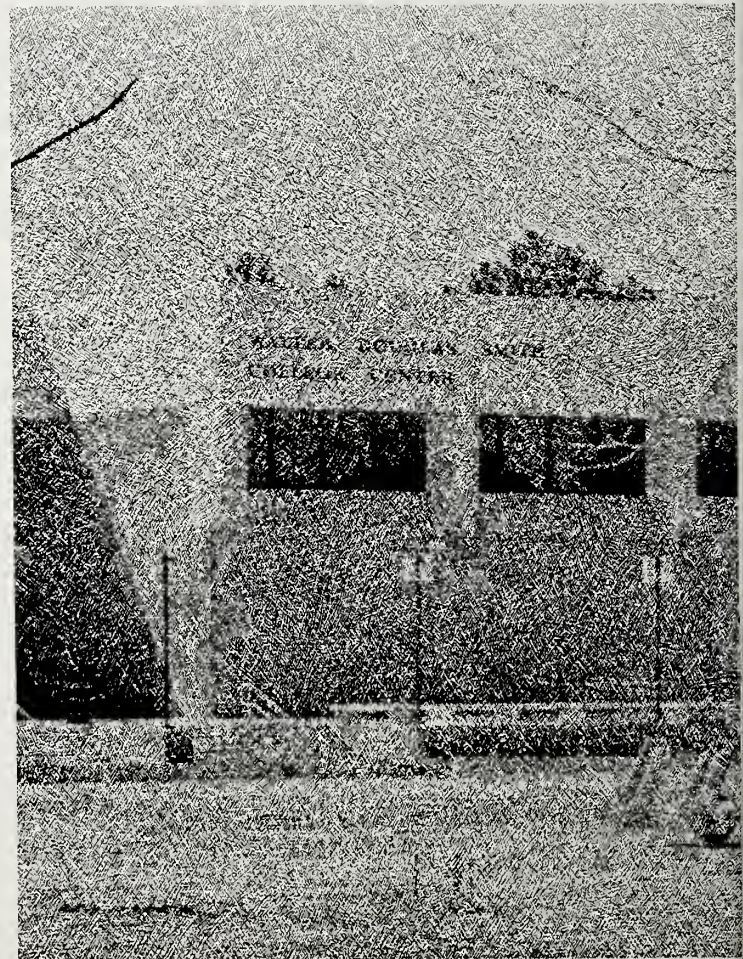

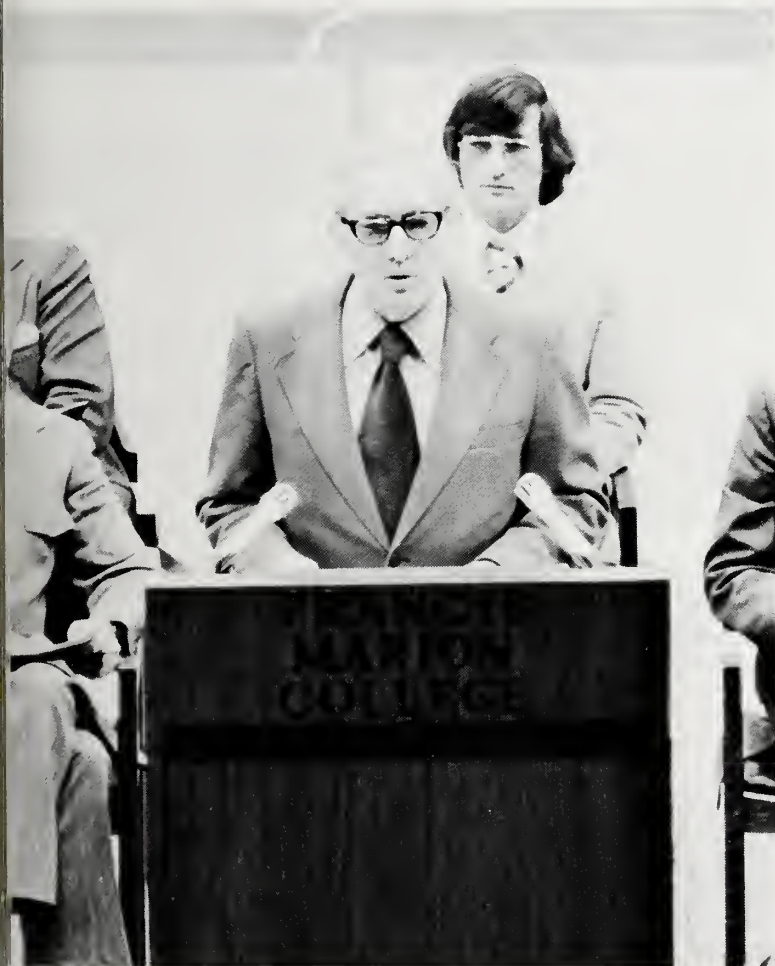

COLLEGE CENTERS OPENS

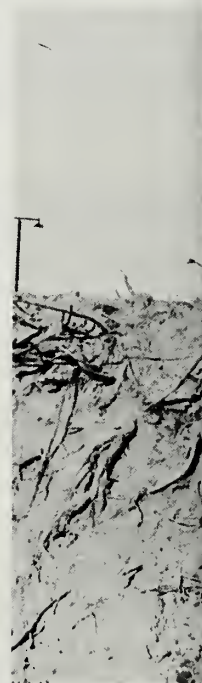

Occupied in October of 1974, Smith College Center was officially dedicated on January 26, 1975. Named in honor of Dr. Walter Douglas Smith, President of the College, the comprehensive facility is the fourth building to be constructed on campus. Dedication ceremonies were presided over by Dr. John W. Baker. Mr. James A. Rogers, Chairman Emeritus of the State College Board of Trustees, officially named the building. A reception and tour of the facilities followed the ceremonies.

I stood there watching,
inwardly crying,
as teeth tore
into fibrous flesh.
One by one
they came down.
kissing the ground from which they came for the last time.

Forgetting his worries, he slowly walks across the bridge. The saws, the cranes, the bull-doziers, the mud, the stumps--all are gone.

He sits on the warm earth. As the shadows lengthen, fish jump and crickets chirp. Red, yellow, and orange splash across the western sky. And one by one the stars shine out.

Man and nature are at peace.

PATRIOT WEEK

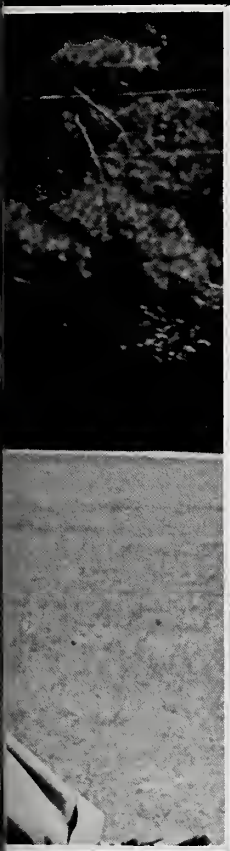

PATRIOT WEEK A time for fun and games and good food was held Sept. 16 through Sept. 20 to promote campus loyalty and patriotism.

On the first day 60 people showed their "patriot-ism" by registering to vote. On Tuesday and Thursday games were held on the field behind Founders Hall. A pancake breakfast was served Wednesday, when everyone wore red, white, and blue. Chicken Bog was served Friday, and a dance that night wound up a fun-filled week.

WORK AND STUDY GO TOGETHER

VIGNETTES: Do you find that your job interferes with school?

RAYMOND CHURCH: I have difficulty in getting my work schedule to coincide with library hours and school hours.

LINDA SNOW: Not really, but sometimes I have a hard time getting to work on time.

YVONNE BROWN: No, because I work only three days a week, and I have plenty of time to study.

BARBARA BUTLER: I have to study harder at night. I also have to hustle to get ready to participate in night-time activities at school.

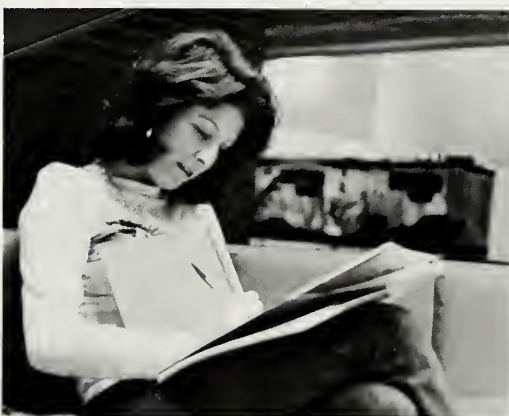

VIGNETTES: Does your job relate to your course of study?

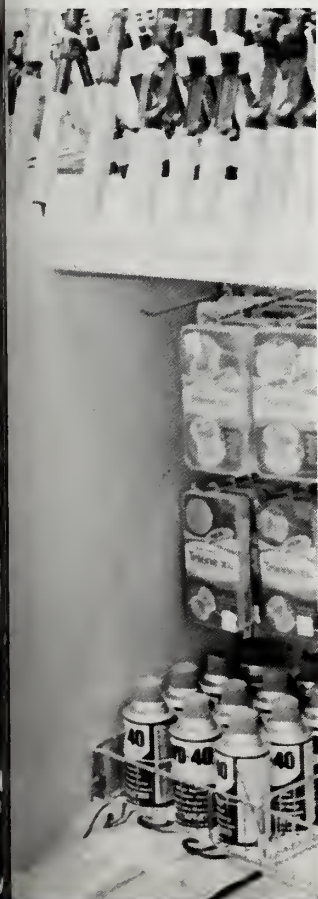

RAYMOND CHURCH: Yes, school is the foundation for my future ambition-executive position.

JAMIE GRIMSLEY: I am a business major, and my job gives me practical experience in concepts I am studying. I put into actual use the theories I study, such as budget control, inflow of products, and price control indexes.

VIGNETTES: How does your employer feel about your being a student?

LINDA SNOW: Most of the people my employer hires are FMC students so he understands.

JAMIE GRIMSLEY: He feels that my school work comes first.

DEBBIE GAYLOR: He feels it's good for the store to hire students. He doesn't have a great need for full-time employees.

YVONNE BROWN: He only allows us to work three days a week. He is concerned about the students he hires.

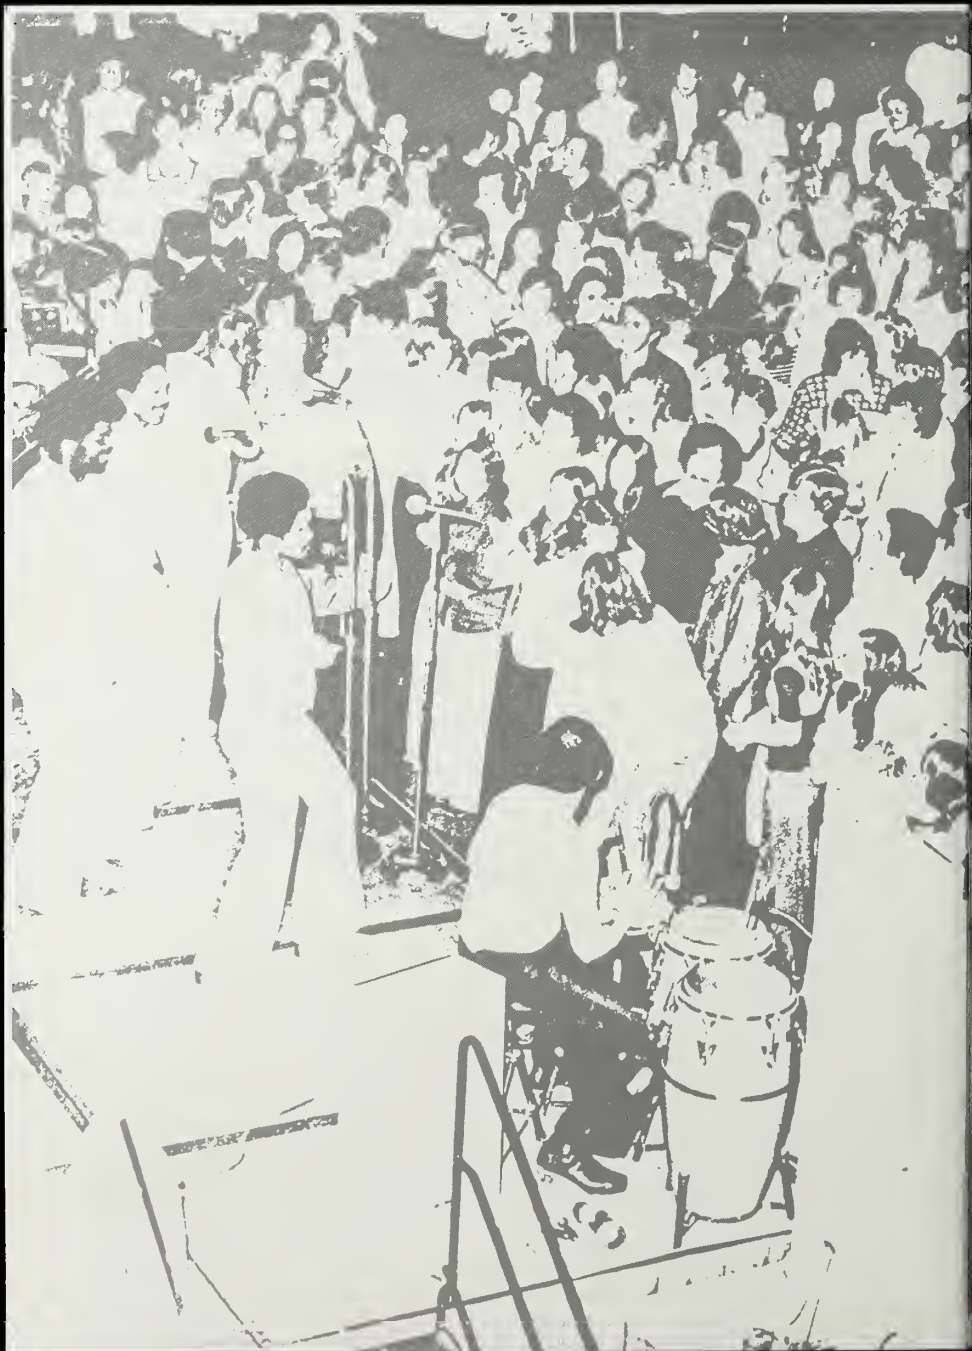

BARBARA BUTLER: I have a good boss. He understands that school work must come first. Last year during Greek Week he understood that I had to be late in order to participate with Phi Mu.

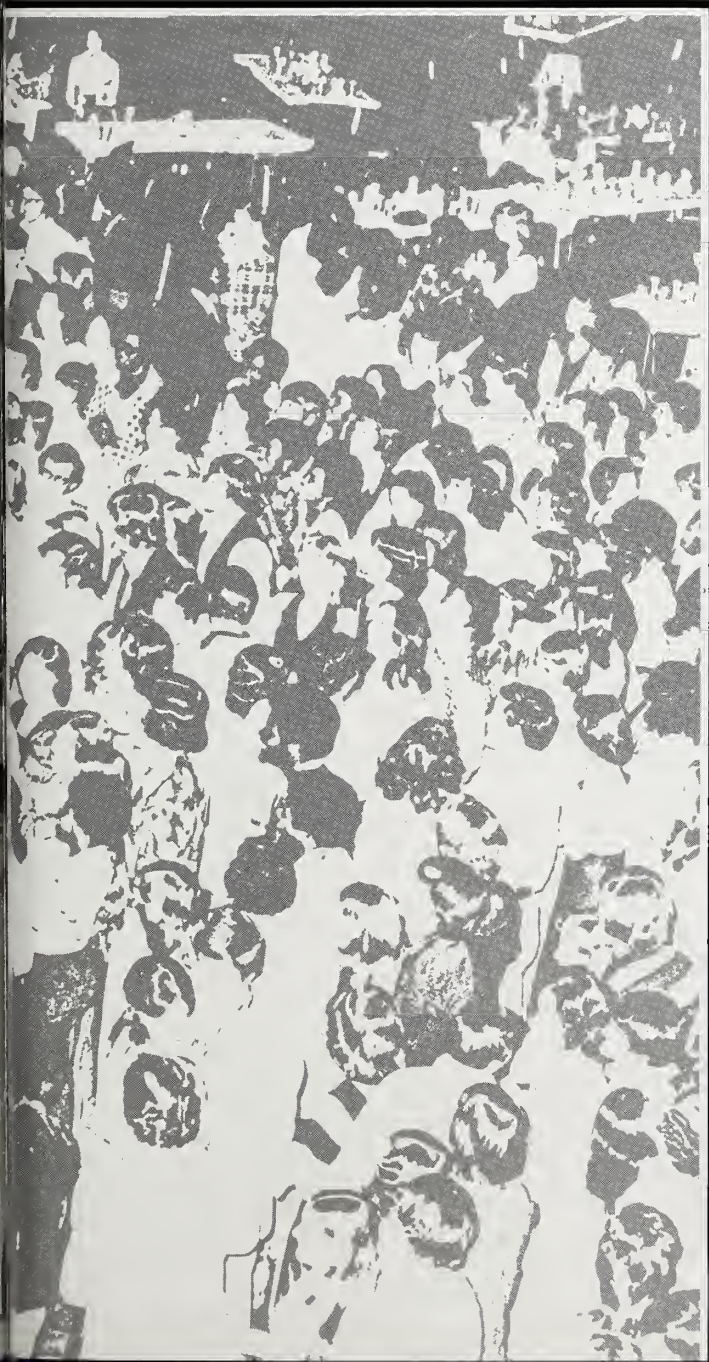

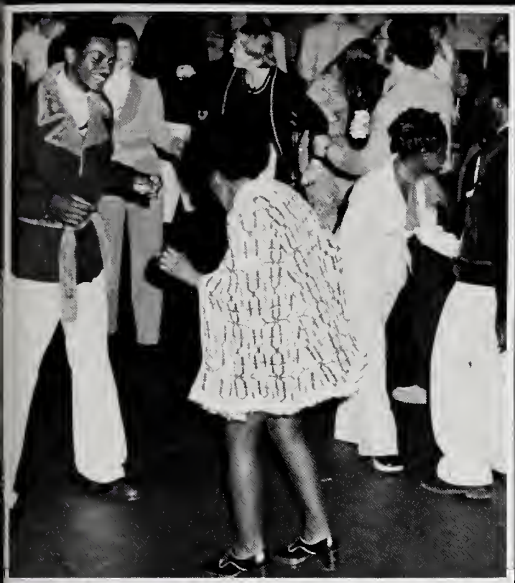

VIGNETTES: Do you have any general comments?

WATTIE SNOWDEN: I do not think you will find any better qualified faculty, administration, and staff anywhere. They really work with the students.

BARBARA BUTLER: FMC has grown so much since my first year. There are many more social activities at night that working students can participate in.

ENTERTAINMENT '74-'75

A wide variety of entertainment was presented during '74-'75. Lane's General Store played for the first official dance. Next, Brown Ash and The Next of Kin performed for a Halloween Treat. Big Al and The Downings were back to provide entertainment for the Christmas Dance. Big Weekend followed with Archie Bell and the Drells as well as The Drifters. An Outdoor Concert with three bands started off Spring Break. The Spring Dance, at which time Ms. FMC and Court were presented, featured City Council. And Senior Day brought Angel Oak closed a most successful year.

A GREAT PLACE FOR STUDENTS

Shortly after Smith College Center opened, THE CAMPUS CRIER polled students and faculty on what they thought about the new campus facility.

LEROY BURKE: I think it is great. I am as proud of it as if I had built it myself.

WAYNE LESTER: Excellent facility. I believe it will provide the FMC community with a place for recreation.

DR. JESSIE JORDAN: I hope it will create a more cohesive student body. I hope it will lead to more interaction between students and faculty.

BILLY FOXWORTH: I was shocked. It is beautiful. I am going to bring my grandmother to see it.

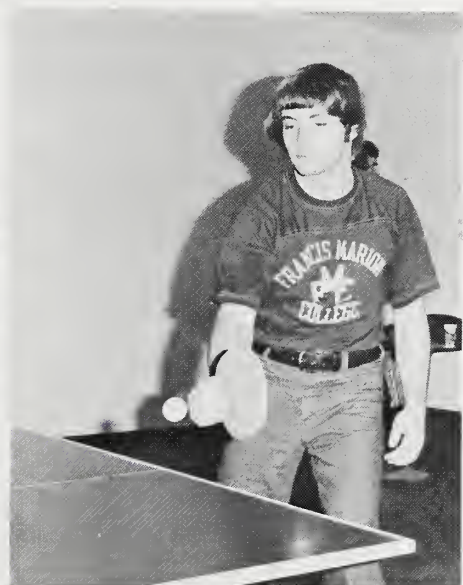

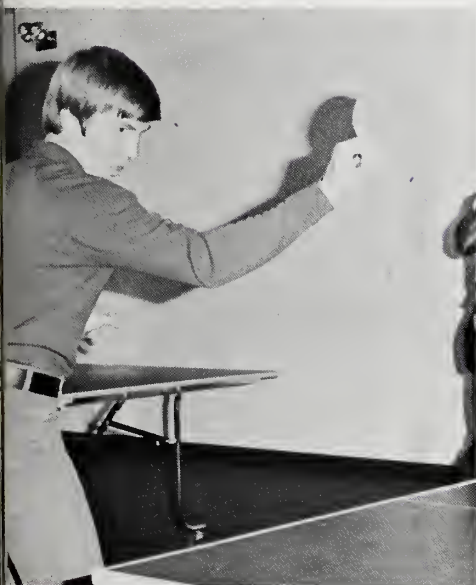

BILLY HOOD: It's designed and equipped very well. I think it will handle the student needs for many years to come, and it definitely makes FMC the college of the future.

DEVONNE GREER: I am quite impressed with it. It makes me proud to be a Patriot and part of FMC.

GLORIA DIMMERY: I think it is the best facility of its kind at any school I've seen. I think it will draw many more students next year.

BILLY JENKINS: The swimming pool is luscious. I also think the Student Center will be a great asset to the students and faculty alike and to the people who are interested in enjoying a beautiful establishment.

ELLEN WILLIAMS: You get to see more of your friends. It gives commuters a place to relieve their boredom. It offers a good place to relax and study.

DAVID OWENS: It is a great place for students to come to spend their leisure time. It will be a boost to the athletic program, and perhaps more people will attend basketball games.

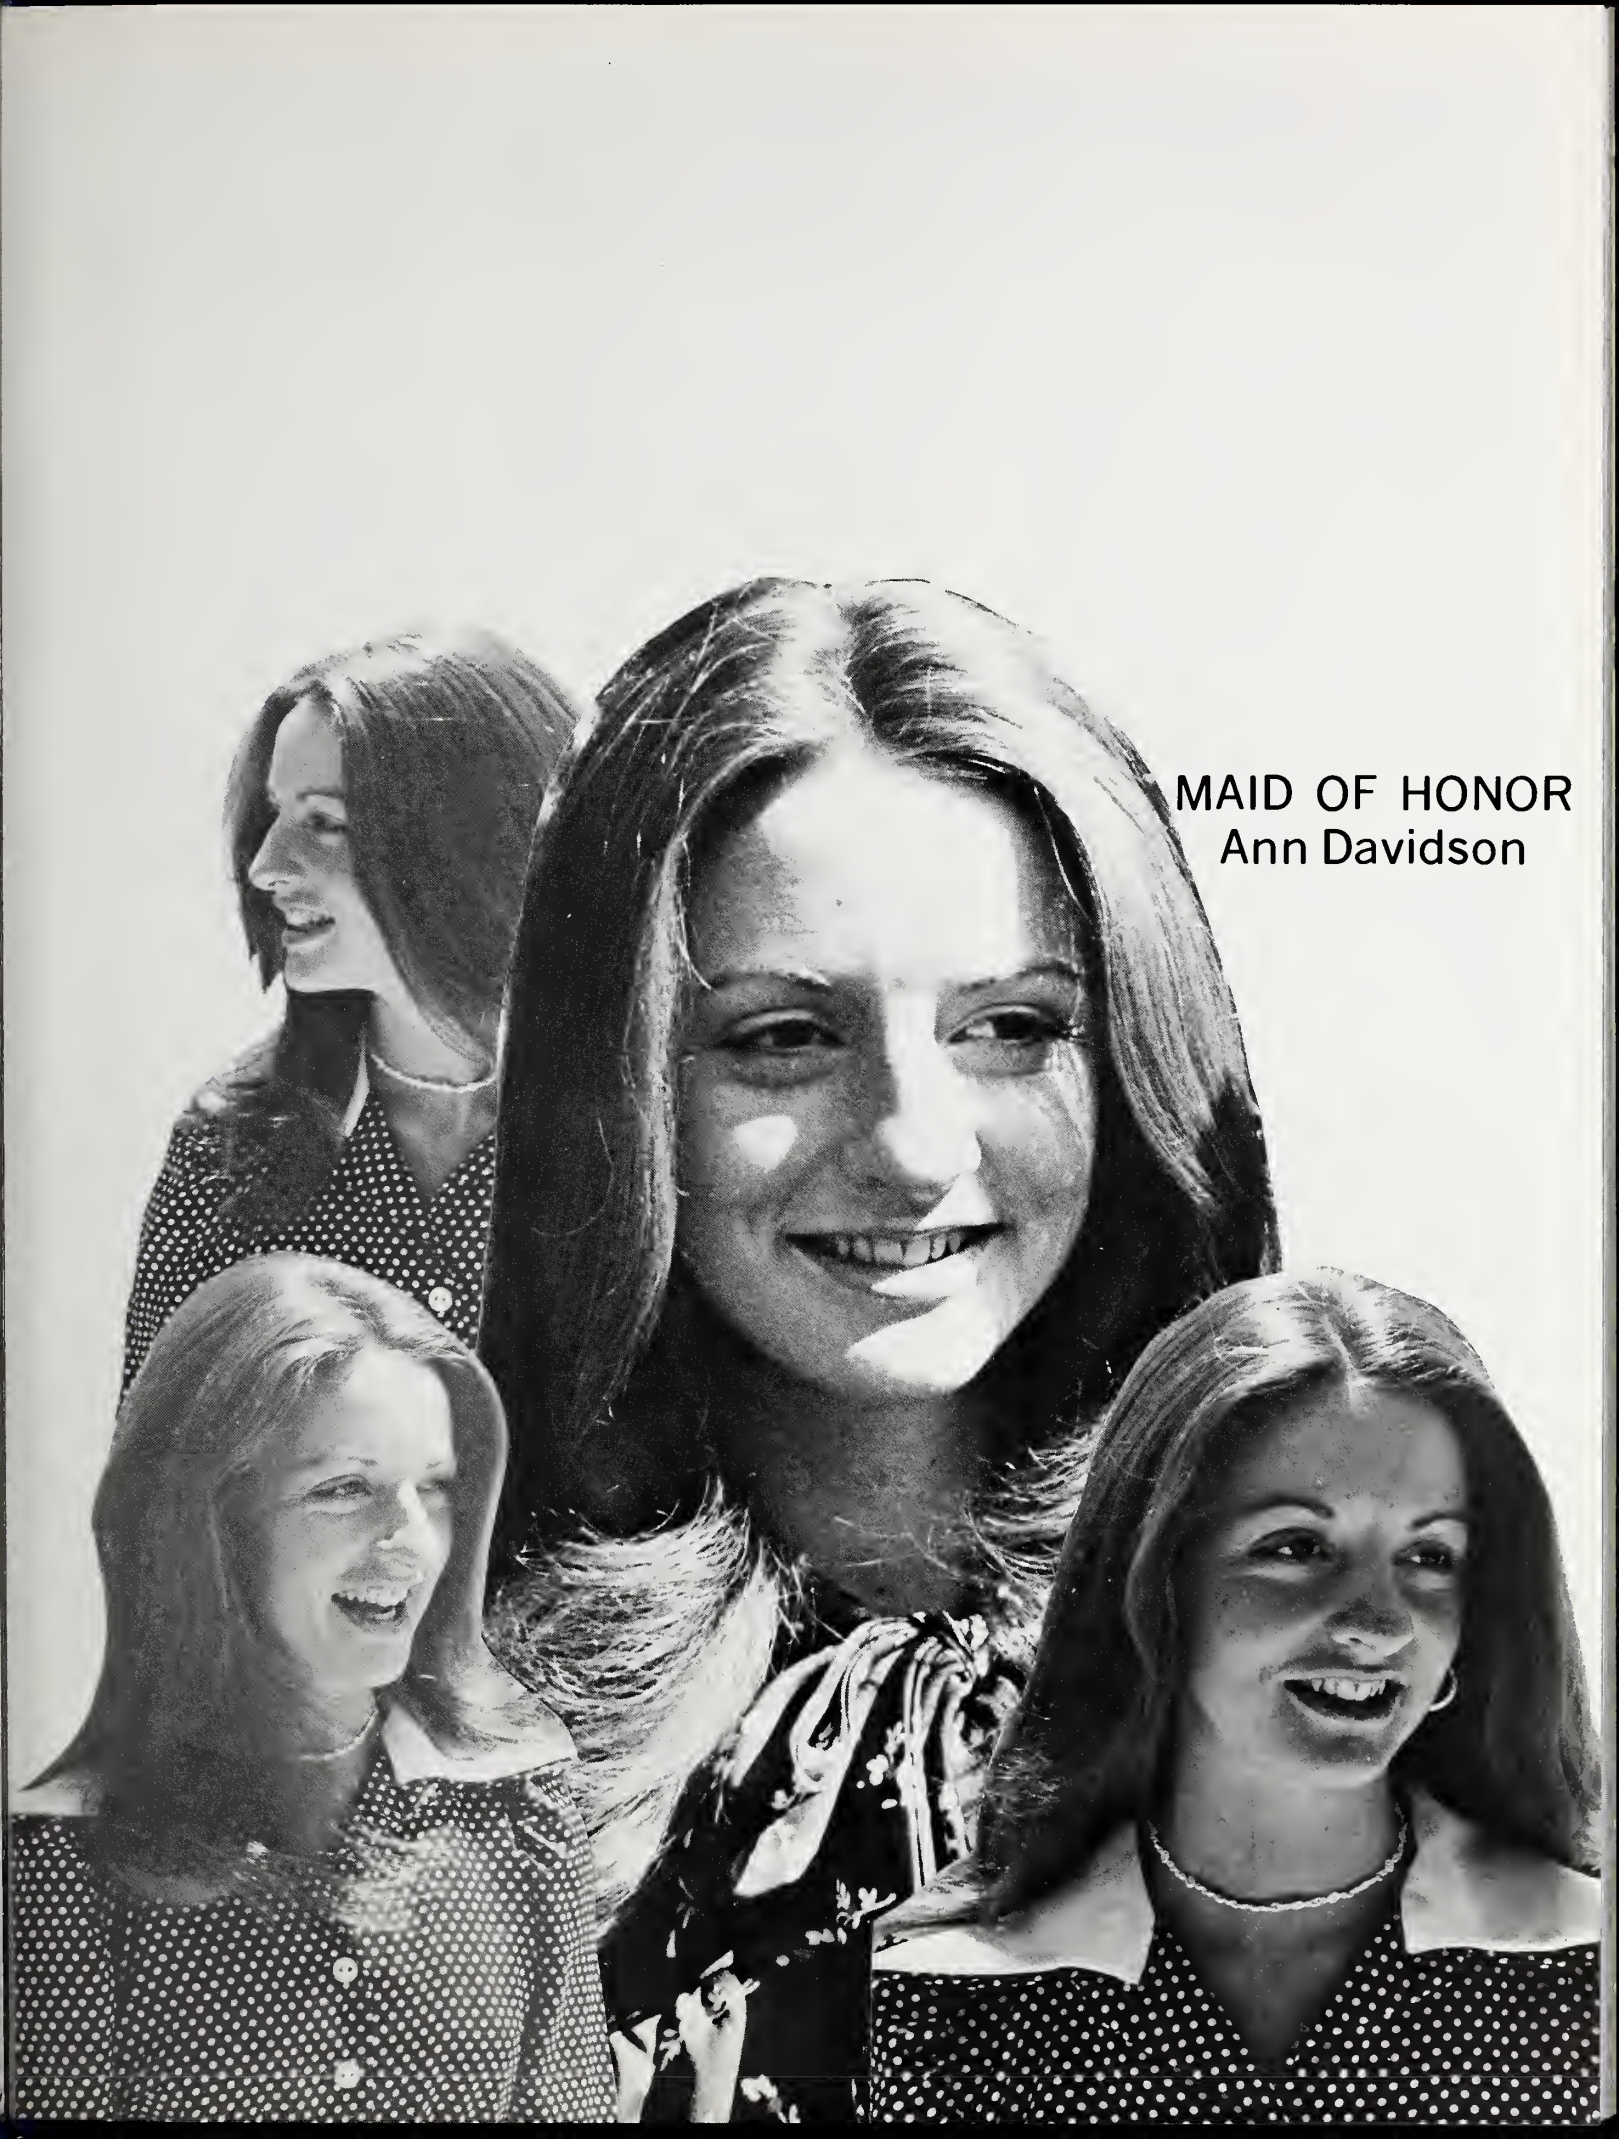

FRANK AUTREY: It's outstanding. We needed something like this for the students. It's nice of a small college to spend so much money on an activities center instead of classrooms.

DR. DONALD BAILEY: It is very plush. I don't think I have seen anything like it on a Southern campus. It is entering a different world. You can just forget about everything else. It exceeds my fondest expectations.

DR. LLOYD BIRCH: I just like it.

1975 HOMECOMING HELD

HOMECOMING '75--a day full of activities--began with Registration followed by a Coffee for faculty and alumni sponsored by President Smith and the Annual Business Meeting with Marilyn Martin presiding. A mid-day dinner and tour of campus followed.

VIGNETTES: What are your plans for the Alumni Association?

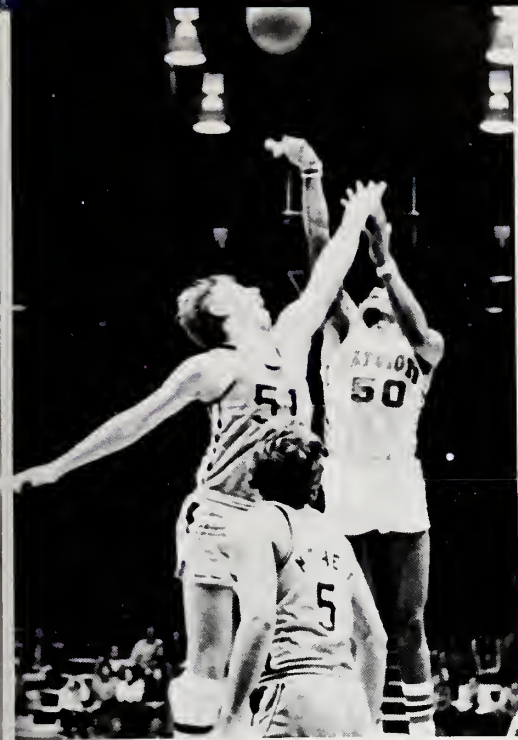

MARILYN MARTIN: We are young, only three years old. We are working on building our membership. We have only eighty members at this time. Our primary project is our Alumni Scholarship. Five hundred dollars is awarded to a deserving student who has maintained a 2.0. We are also working on job placement for graduates.

VIGNETTES: How has FMC changed since you graduated?

MARILYN MARTIN: I was in the first graduating class, and Stokes Hall was the only building. The basketball team has really improved. There are so many more extra-curricular activities. The faculty and staff have doubled. It is very obvious that the administration and faculty are hand-picked. I believe this is responsible for much of the rapid growth. We are now on the map in more ways than one.

VIGNETTES: What would you like to see changed at FMC?

MARILYN MARTIN: I would like to see a football team and more scholarships. I do not want the close-knit student body, which is absent on other campuses, to change.

VIGNETTES: Do you have any general comments?

MARILYN MARTIN: Our Association is growing rapidly. We have great plans for the future. I believe we will be one of the more active associations in the State.

On Homecoming night the Patriot basketball team defeated the Wofford Terriers. And at half-time Mary Alice Moody was crowned the first Homecoming Queen.

VIGNETTES: How does it feel to be FMC's first Homecoming Queen?

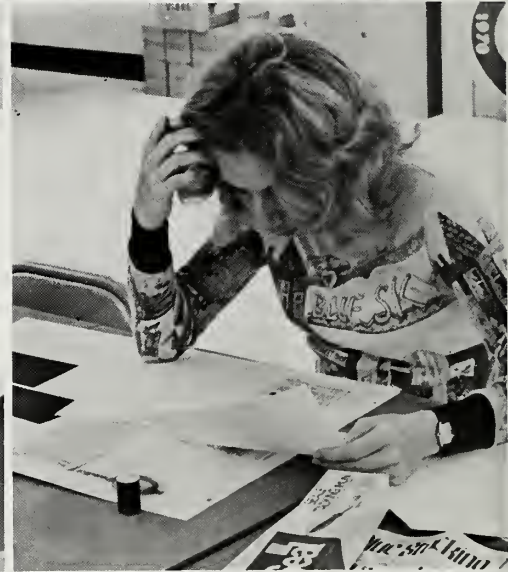

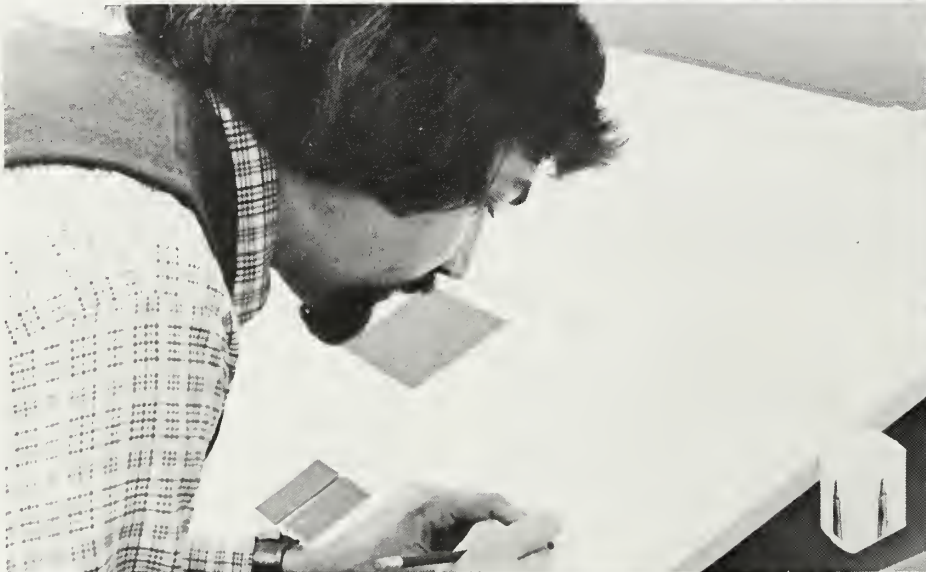

MARY ALICE MOODY: It is a very happy feeling. It is something I can tell my children.

VIGNETTES: How has FMC changed since your freshman year?

MARY ALICE MOODY: The students have become closer. The College Center allows students to stay at school and not go straight home after class, but I would like to see more students taking more interest and using the facilities offered.

ER THE CAMPUS THE CAMPUS CRIER THE CA

Despite weekly deadlines, misspelled words, and more copy than space, the forty-eight issues of THE CAMPUS CRIER were in their boxes every Monday. The four-page paper kept students informed through news stories and features as well as announcements and a calendar of events. THE CAMPUS CRIER for 1974-1975 was produced by Manfred Ilias, Susan Kaney, and Gene Norton with help from Pete O'Boyle and Barry Cameron. Staff coordinator was Ms. Gale Cox.

FMC — AN ECONOMIC VALUE TO COMMUNITY

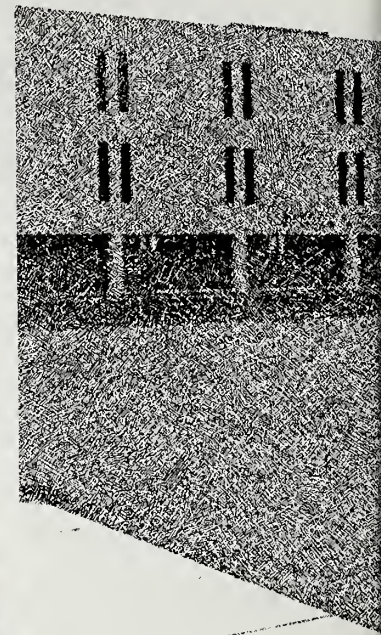

In a short period of time a lot of money has gone into Francis Marion College.

As a state-supported institution, naturally tax dollars have played an important role in creating this facility. One also naturally would wonder what is the return for this indirect investment of tax dollars?

Apart from educating the people who attend the college, bringing the expansion of culture, theatre, recitals, lectures of interest, a sharing of community programs, keeping educated people in the region, the College also reciprocates on a more tangible level.

With an enterprise of size, such as FMC, follows a job market in various skills for area residents. In the past fiscal year, salaries totaling $2.2 million were expended by FMC. This is money that goes back into the region, assisting the rise in area living standards.

It takes supplies, equipment, and contractual services to run such an enterprise as FMC, and, in this category, the College expends $1.2 million, $500,000 of which is directly poured back into the Pee Dee area. It is estimated that about 300 students have come to Florence and FMC who ordinarily would not be residing in this area were it not for the College. At a "minimum," it has been estimated the these students' expenditures for housing, food, and transportation in a given year is $2,000 each, bringing $600,000 yearly into the Florence area.

The remaining 1800 students expend at the least $250 each for clothing, food, and transportation, totaling $450,000 annually, which flows into the Florence and surrounding area economy.

Those students who graduate each year and remain in this area offer greater contributions to their communities through teaching, and engaging in civic and community activities.

As FMC expands, the surrounding area will benefit in numerous ways. Thus, education is a vehicle for economic and academic progress, enriching the community it serves.

SGA ACTIVITIES

SGA officers, R.J. Reynolds, president, Paul Gallogly, vice president, Pete O'Boyle, secretary, and Danny DuBose, treasurer, were installed at Fall Convocation. Fall Semester included Patriot Week, appointment of committee members, films, and work on a new constitution by the Senate. The Executive Committee made a concerted effort to open communication channels with other student governments. As a result Reynolds was elected Vice President of the Student Body Presidents Association of South Carolina.

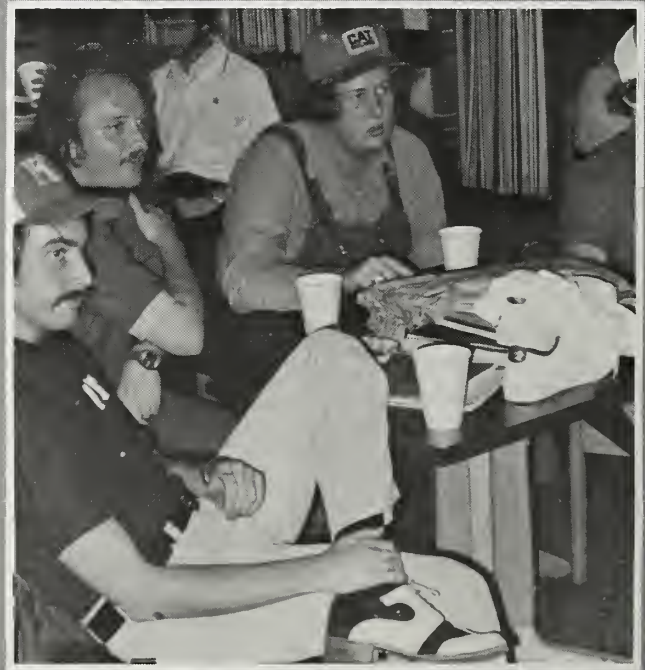

During Spring Semester there were more films, including "The Reivers," which turned into a beer and pizza "happening." A first for FMC occurred when students prepared meat over open fires for a campus barbeque. Next came days of campaigning as students vied for the various campus positions. Boo-Ha-Hiss, another first, provided students with a variety of old films, suds, and pizza. Senior Day concluded a most successful year.

HOUSEWIVES BEAT THE BLAHS

VIGNETTES: How does your family feel about your coming back to school?

NORMA JUSTINE ROE: My family is happy for me and a little proud that I am going back to get my degree.

PATRICIA WILSON: They are supporting me. My husband has his masters; therefore, he sees the importance of education. He understands my desire to learn.

PATSY POSTON: They think it is very nice. My son is a student here also.

BETTY PULLIE: My family likes everything except the time it takes to study. They are a little jealous.

PATRICIA SKIPPER: My eldest son is pleased. My youngest son could care less; he thinks it's funny.

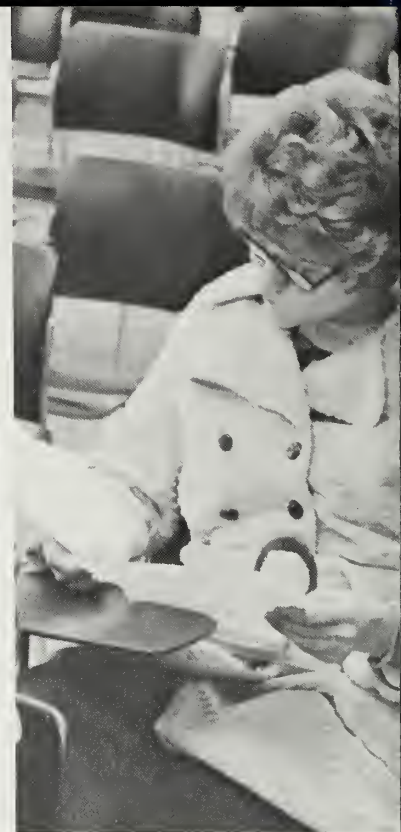

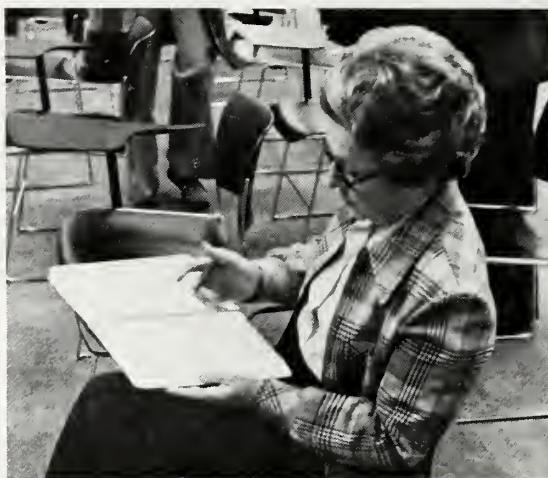

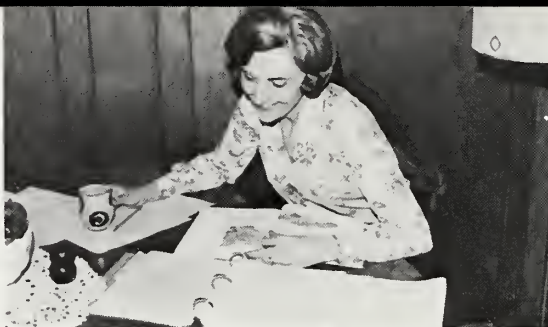

VIGNETTES: Does your family help with your homework or housework?

NORMA JUSTINE ROE: Everyone in my family has their own chores. The household runs pretty smoothly because each accepts his responsibilities.

PATRICIA WILSON: My seven year old points out my mistakes. He sees my grades and says, "Mommy, you can do better than that!"

PATSY POSTON: My son, who is a student here, helps me in math.

NORA LEE HANNA: My family helps with the housework a lot. I prepare meals, and they do the dishes. My son does the vacuuming.

PATRICIA SKIPPER: My youngest son who is eleven helps with math.

VIGNETTES: Why did you return to school?

NORMA JUSTINE ROE: The personal satisfaction is one of the big reasons I have come back. Even if I don't finish, I now know I can do it.

PATRICIA WILSON: I was a teacher's aid for three years, and I decided to teach school. I decided to take the plunge and get it behind me.

PATSY POSTON: I've always wanted to be a teacher and this is the only way.

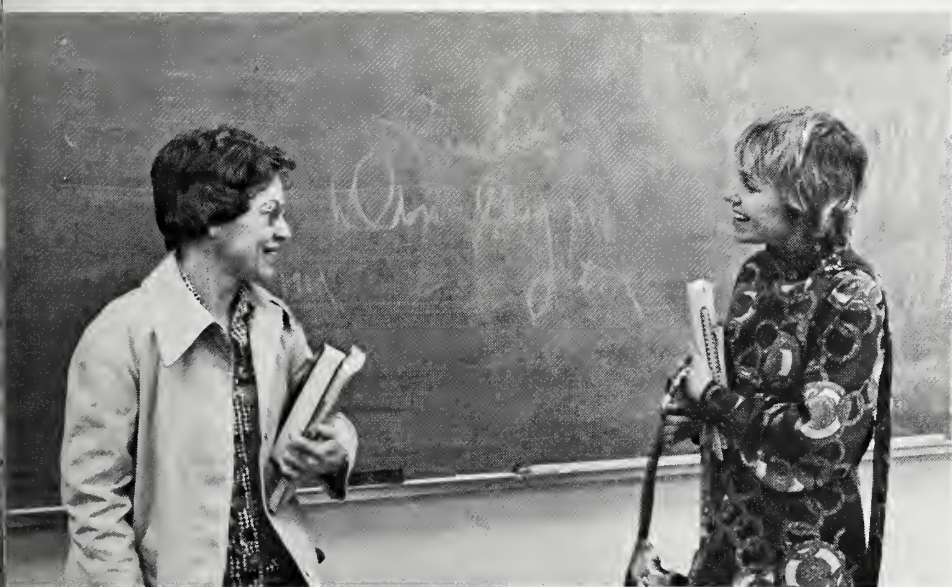

NORA LEE HANNA: I want to teach elementary education. I've always enjoyed children and feel I can help them by furthering my education.

PATRICIA SKIPPER: I've always wanted to return to school, and FMC gives me this opportunity.

VIGNETTES: Do you have any general comments?

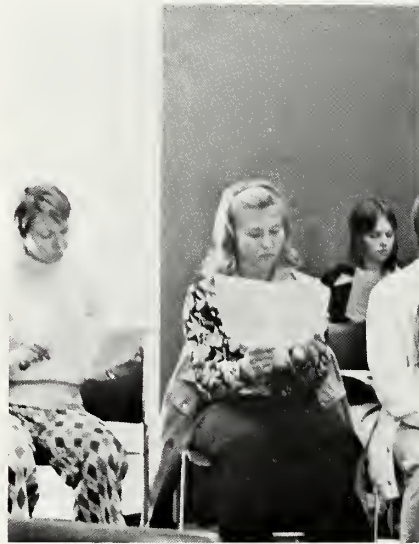

BETTY PULLIE: It's been a challenge.

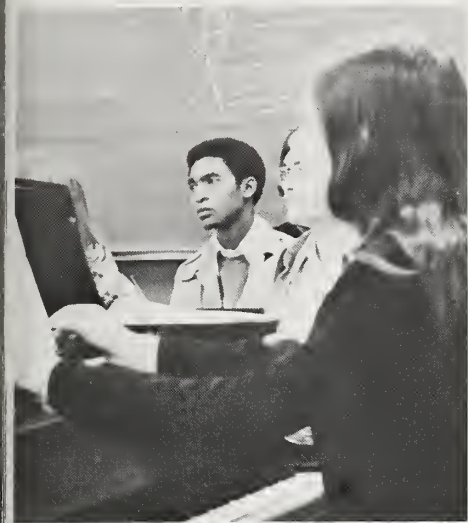

PATRICIA SKIPPER: I'm grateful for the opportunity FMC offers. I enjoy very much the give and take between generations. The young accept me, and I accept the young.

CHORUS

Formed in 1970, the Francis Marion College Chorus presented a Christmas and a Spring Concert. Under the direction of Dr. Adrian R. Ketchum, the chorus performed during activity period and during the evening in order to reach more people. In addition, Francis Marion's oldest performing organization was featured as part of the program when General Francis Marion was inducted into the South Carolina Hall of Fame.

Several members of the chorus formed the Francis Marion Ensemble, which performed on various occasions.

THEATRE

A dinosaur, a royal family, and an invisible rabbit came to Francis Marion during 1974-1975 as part of the three productions scheduled by the FMC Theatre. Directors Dennis C.

Sanderson and Stencil Campbell staged these three productions for the entertainment of students, faculty, staff, and members of the community. Despite pepper in sandwiches, baggy pants, lost turbans, and black coffee, Thornton Wilder's THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH opened the season. Hours of practice, wooden bones, swords, and a cut thumb brought James Goldman's

THE LION IN WINTER to the stage in February. Amidst aspirants wanting to try out for the "rabbit," forgotten lines, and lost costumes, Mary Chase's HARVEY was performed in April.

WIND ENSEMBLE

Organized in the fall of 1974, the Francis Marion College Wind Ensemble consists of musicians from FMC as well as area high schools, colleges, and communities. An additional opportunity for Pee Dee musicians to further their interest in music, the Wind Ensemble is a concert band. Under the direction of Mr. Franklin West, the Ensemble presented fall and spring concerts. In addition, musicians performed for the Dedication of Smith College Center and at Fourth Commencement Exercises.

CHANGE IN GRADING SYSTEM VIEWED

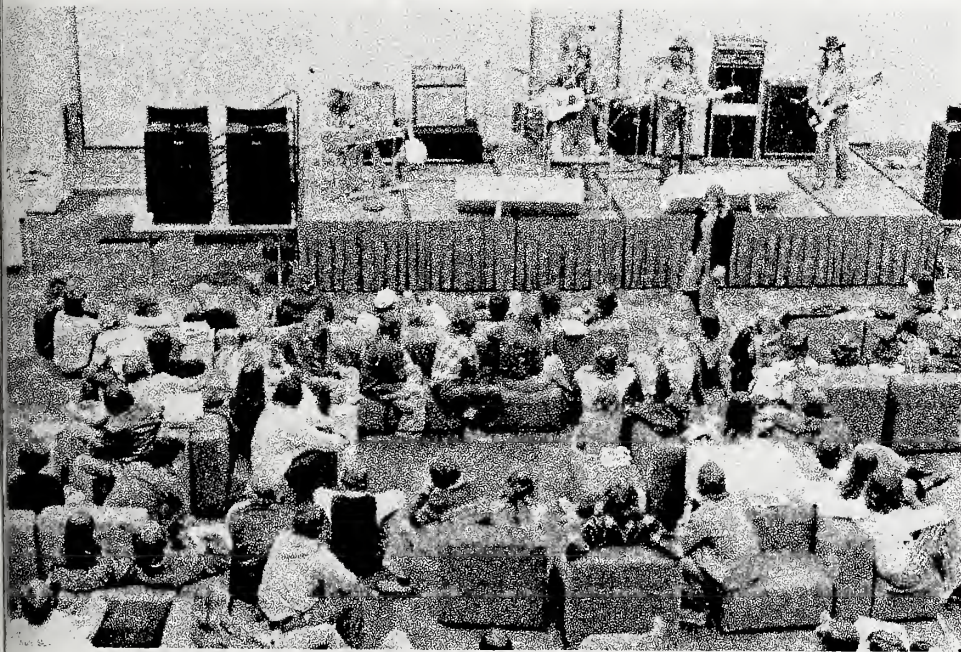

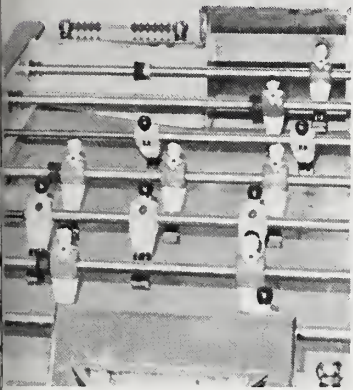

Why change what is already a good system? The most frequent argument for changing the present system is that it is unfair for someone with an 80 average to get the same grade as someone with an 89 average. If a change were made, who would benefit? Under either system each would still get a B (above average grade); under the 5.0 system one gets a 3.9 and the other a 3.0. Changing to the 5.0 system would look like the bare minimum. When the grades are transferred, the old 4.0 system will be used.

Another bad thing about the change would be that it would place even more emphasis on grades. Ideally, students go to college in order to learn. Grades are important because they force the student to expend a certain amount of effort in order to reach a minimum level of achievement. Usually the more effort a student makes the greater his grades will be. A 5.0 system would make every point on a test count.

A change from the 4.0 system to the 5.0 can only work to the detriment of the students.

Pete O'Boyle

Our present grading system is adequate, but is "adequate" enough? We have a wide variation of individual grading by subject and professor. This variation often causes unnecessary resentment between students and faculty, especially when a student barely misses the next higher grade by a fraction of a point.

The second problem is the wide range from one grade to the next. For example, for an 80 and an 89 the same grade is given.

The third problem is the amount of difference it would make in the total G.P.R. I believe that this total with our present system is lower than it would be by using a more detailed grading system. If this is so then the present system is hurting our students' chances for better jobs, easier acceptance in other schools, and on the permanent record since it is not reflecting what the student is actually making.

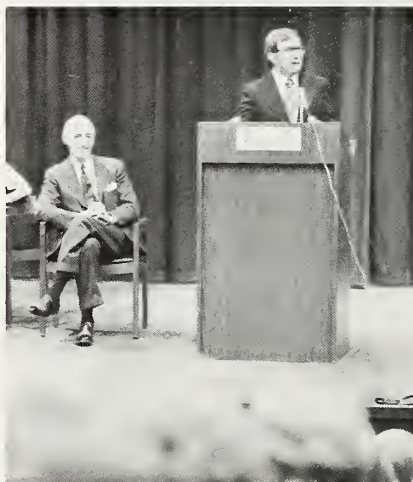

All of these problems could best be dealt with by changing our grading system from a 4.0 to a system that would give the student exactly what he earned. For example, if a student made an 87 he would receive a 3.7. Using a 5.0 scale where a 100 is a perfect 5.0 and having all professors grade by a set scale, I feel, will give the students a more adequate reflection of their work.

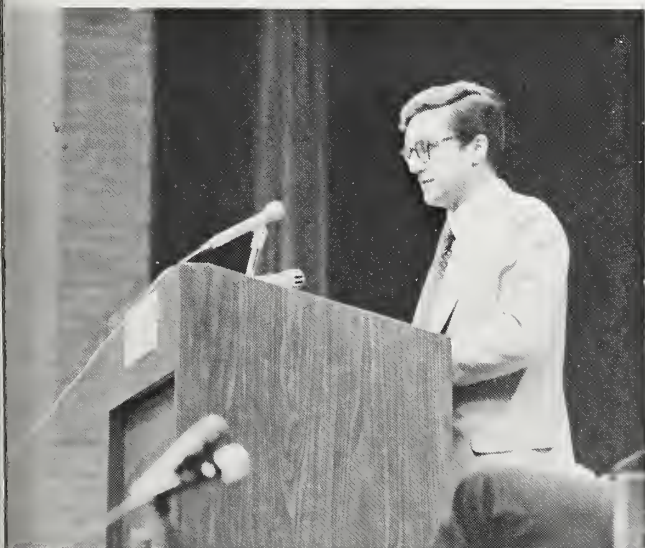

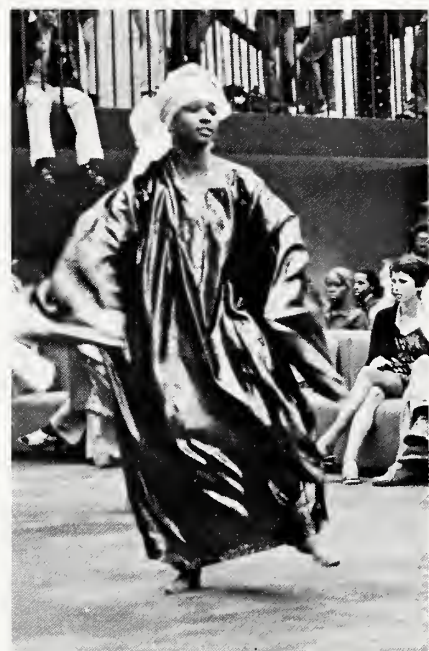

R. J. Reynolds

THEATRE DANCE MUSIC AND LECTURES

The Francis Marion Artist Series and Lecture Series presented a variety of programs throughout the year for the enrichment of students, faculty, and members of the community. On September 24, candidates for Governor of South Carolina presented their ideas before an overflowing audience in McNair Auditorium. The Continental Theatre Company presented THE NIGHT THOREAU SPENT IN JAIL on November 4. James E. Clyburn, Commissioner of the South Carolina State Human Affairs Commission, spoke on December 4. The Arthur Hall Afro-American Dance Ensemble entertained with an exciting blend of music and dance on February 27. The Eastman Quartet of Rochester, New York, performed on March 6. James C. Miller, Senior Staff Economist for the President's Council of Economic Advisers, spoke on Government Regulation of Business on March 10. Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, one of America's most distinguished black educators, spoke about his career as an educator, writer, and civic leader on April 2.

VETERANS PREPARE FOR FUTURE

VIGNETTES: Why did you choose FMC?

TOMMY LANE: I wanted to stay at home. It is cheaper than most schools.

DENNIS WALSTON: My wife is from Florence, and we decided to settle here.

TERRY BAILEY: I wanted to attend a small college in order to apply myself better.

CARL TODD: I chose it because of its location. It was closer to what I call home.

JAMES A. JOHNSTON: I thought it offered a good selection of courses in a good price range.

DARYL REINHARD: I had already traveled all over the world, and I wanted to come home. I was tired of living out of a suitcase.

VIGNETTES: Do you have any general comments?

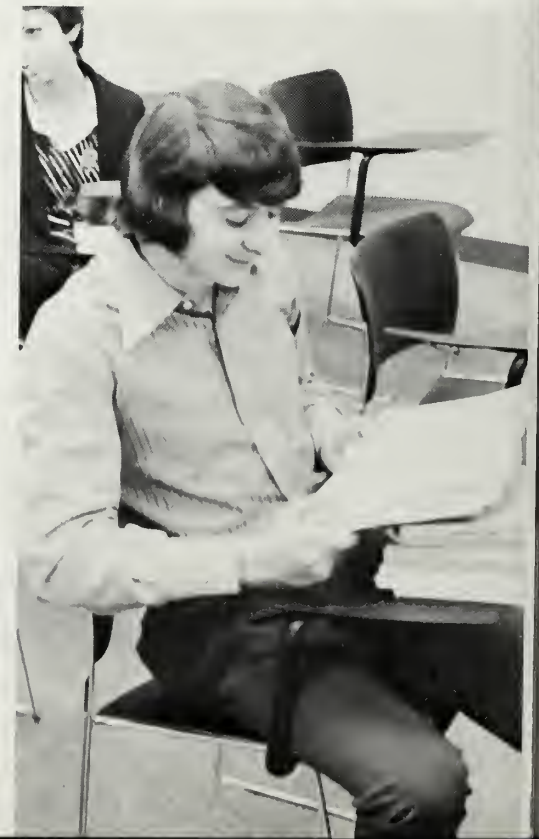

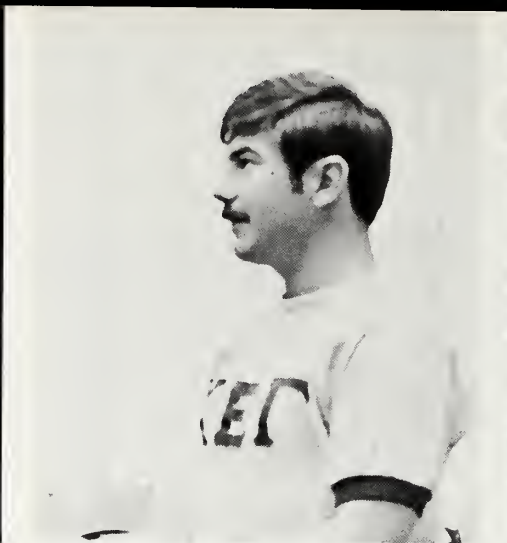

TERRY BAILEY: My time and money are well spent at FMC.

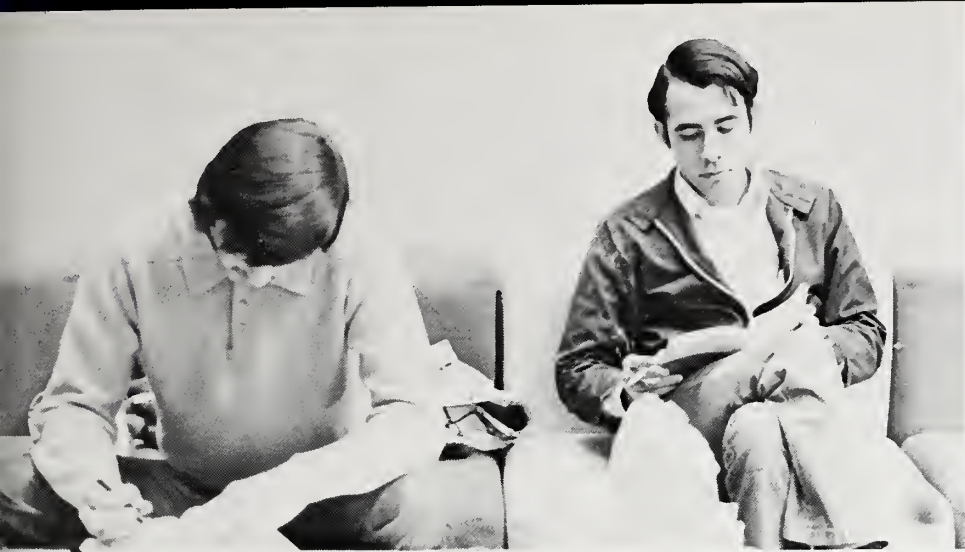

CARL TODD: I have been to three different colleges, and FMC offers more of what a college student is looking for.

JAMES A. JOHNSTON: FMC offers the student a well-rounded course of study that is an asset in the future.

DENNIS WALSTON: A small college allows you to meet more people.

MANFRED ILIAS: When I left the Air Force and decided to resume my academic endeavors, I took a long, hard look at many colleges and their programs. I tried not to restrict my locale in searching for where I wished to go to college. Yet the basic factors of finances and residences did play a deciding role in my final choice. I chose FMC for these very rational and utilitarian reasons: it was a new and innovative environment for academic expansion. It had a young and well-educated faculty, who were much attuned to present and future needs of the students. It offered diversified programs, which, in FMC's short evolution, further presented me with the feeling of a continuing search to meet what the dynamic forces of the "real world" demanded. Although FMC may not be as well-known to the business and the social sectors outside of the region it serves, I can come away with the confidence to compete academically with graduates of the more well-known colleges in other parts of the country.

INTRAMURAL ACTIVITIES

How do you take out your frustrations after failing a test, receiving a parking ticket, or eating cold french fries? One of the answers for many members of the Francis Marion community is intramurals—an opportunity for students, faculty, and staff to compete vigorously against opponents and take out their frustrations on the refs.

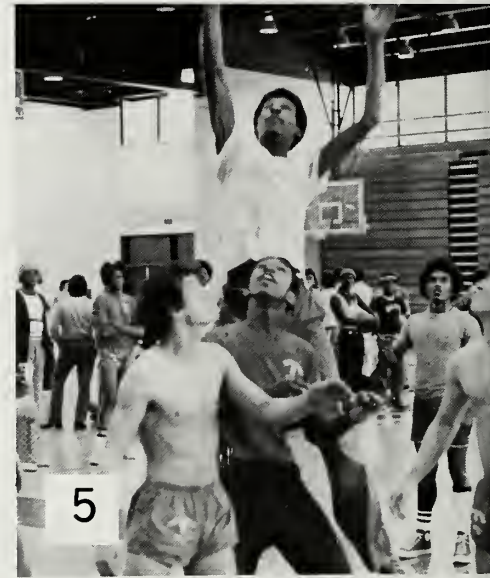

Geared towards meeting the needs and interests of the majority of those interested in participating, the intramural program is directed by Coach Tim Watson. Activities for '74-'75 began in the fall with Flag Football, which was followed by a Turkey Trot. As the season changed, action shifted inside to Volleyball and Basketball. Spring Semester opened with a Billiard Tournament, which was won by Chip Hammond. The year concluded with Racquetball and Softball.

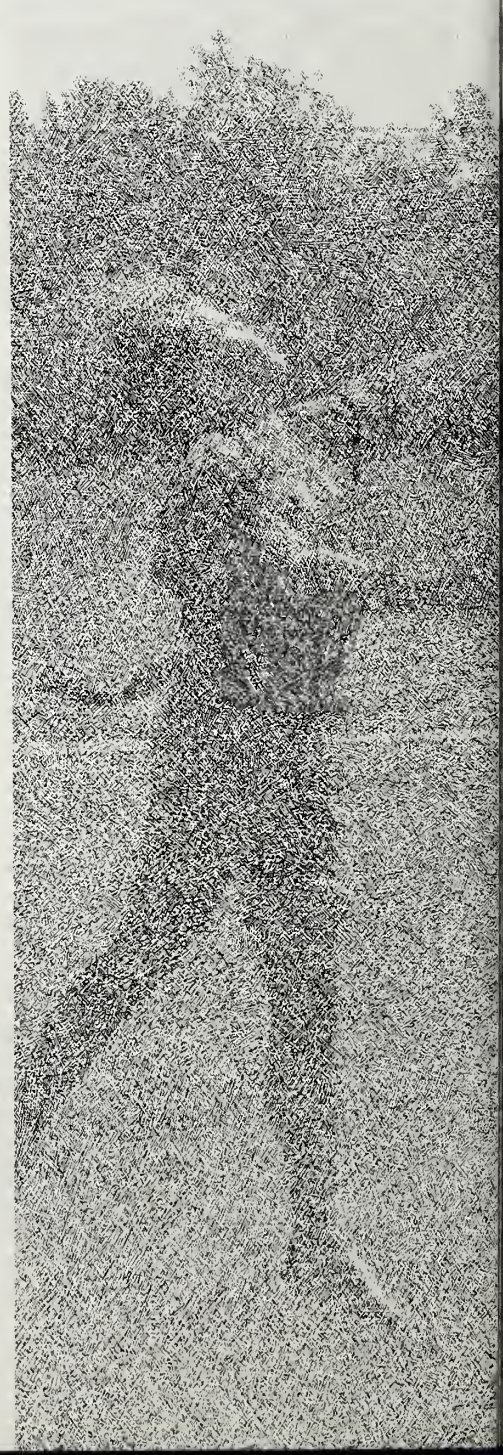

1: KEG plans strategy. 2: After three attempts to score PiKA punts. 3: Footballs sail through the air as intramural play begins for the year. 4: G. Tarte breaks into the open for PiKA. 5: A. Deaver draws back against a strong KEG defense. 6: R. Cain releases the ball just in time. 7: The Stars grab the flag to stop an ASUS player. 8: R. GREEKS

GREEK WEEK

One of the most festive events of the Francis Marion year is Greek Week, an annual time for fun, games, and good times which serves to unite sororities and fraternities as well as promote the Greek image on campus. The success of the '74-'75 Greek Week was the result of many months of careful planning on the part of the Inter-Fraternity Council and the Panhellenic Council.

Greek Week began during activity period on Tuesday with judging of Greek costumes. Next, fraternities competed in chariot judging and a chariot race. Sororities had their race too, but on tricycles. Following, fraternities participated in run around the bat, and sororities vied in a tug of war. Tuesday's events culminated with fraternities and sororities participating in egg throwing contests.

GREEK WEEK

Thursday's activities for fraternities began with a tug of war and a walk across the water. Both events were to have been held at the campus pond, but, due to recent construction, activities were rescheduled for the field behind Founders Hall. Events for sororities included bubble gum stuffing, building a human pyramid, jello eating, and a five-event relay race.

On Friday night fraternities held a chug-a-mug and poker game at the Pepsi Cola Cabin.

Saturday's activities included a raft race down part of the Pee Dee River and a chicken bog. As sororities and fraternities feasted and rested from a strenuous week, winners were announced. Kappa Epsilon Gamma and Pi Kappa Alpha tied for fraternities, and Zeta Tau Alpha won for sororities.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL IFC

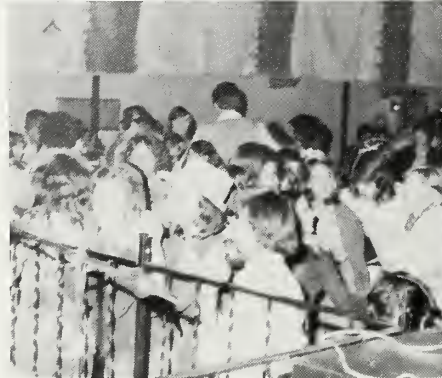

Panhellenic Council was formed to help improve relations between sororities.

During the summer, plans were developed for fall rush and other activities. Major projects for the year included a "bluegrass" dance and concert as well as activities for Greek Week. Other activities included ushering for the FMC Theatre, giving tours of the College, collecting for charities, and helping with Dirt Alert.

Designed to promote unity and brotherhood between fraternities, IFC organized various projects designed to serve FMC and the community. Rush saw over 250 applicants, and a new fraternity, Tau Upsilon Delta, was chartered.

The year began with an old-fashioned chicken bog during Patriot Week and a dance. Other activities included collecting candy at Halloween, organizing a campus blood drive for the Red Cross, collecting for charities, and participating in Dirt Alert.

KAPPA ALPHA

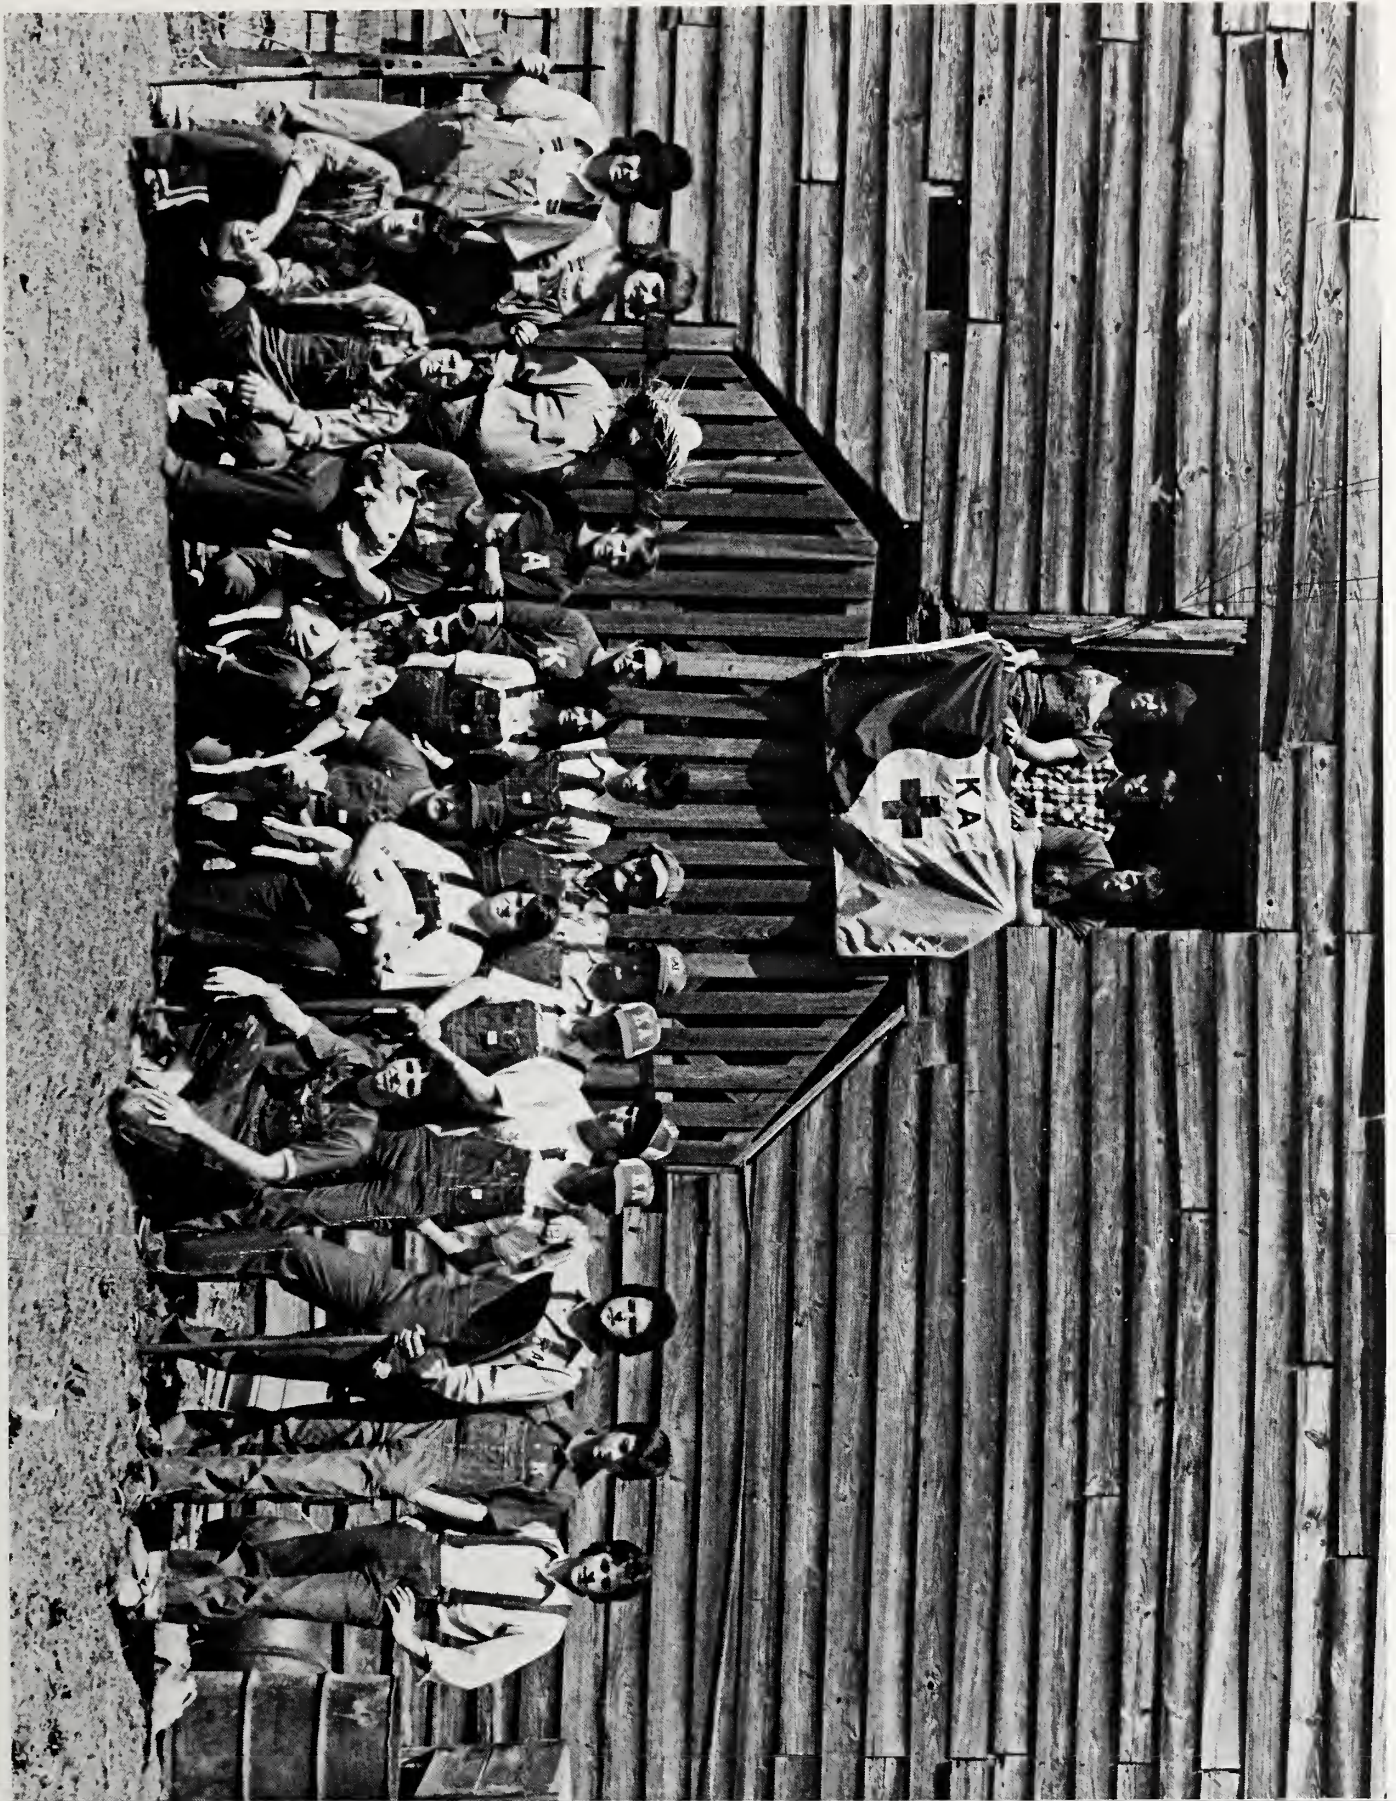

The Delta Tau Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order, the first national fraternity at Francis Marion, began a very active year by staging a "kidnapping" of Mayor C. Cooper Tedder of Florence. The Mayor was held for "ransom" until citizens gave food and clothing for his release. The "scheme" resulted in a sizeable "ransom" being turned over to the Salvation Army, which cited KA for its efforts.

KA participated in many other services to the community: they helped with the Walk-A-Thon and provided movie tickets to the Florence School for Boys. They received an award for giving the most blood to the Red Cross during the campus blood drive. In addition, brothers gave a banquet in honor of local alumni. KA concluded the year with the Old South Weekend in Savannah.

KAPPA EPSILON GAMMA

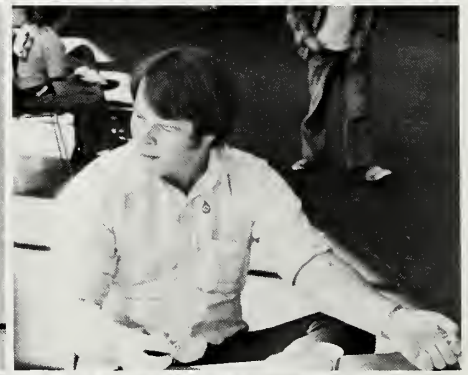

Kappa Epsilon Gamma, the first fraternity established on campus, maintained its tradition of service to the College and the community.

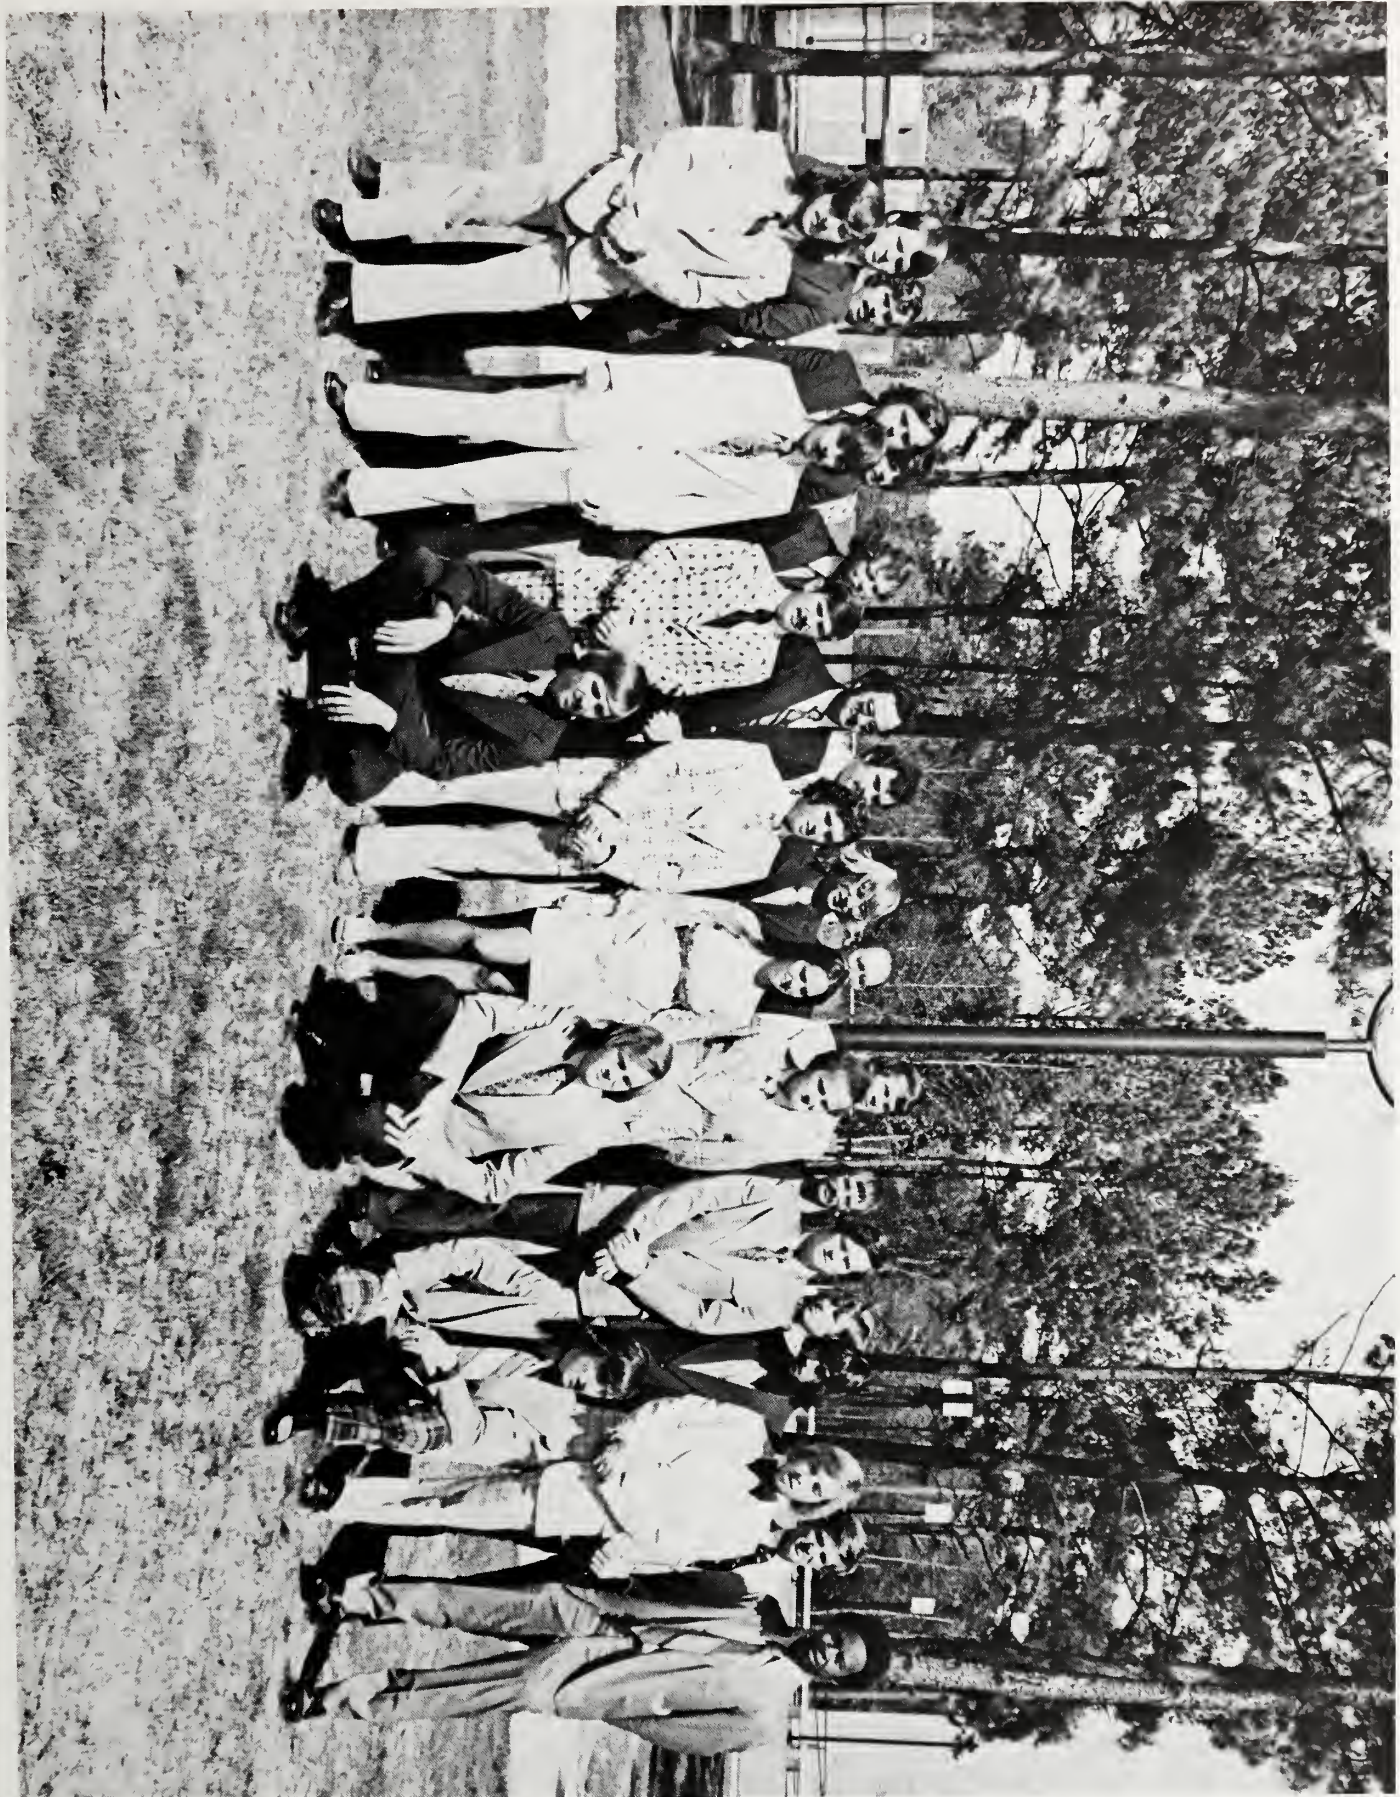

Organized at USCF in 1965, KEG membership totals thirty-two. During '74-'75 brothers served as President of the IFC, as Vice President of SGA, and as Senators.

During the year, KEG served the community by collecting for the Heart Fund, working with Walk-A-Thon, and serving as referees for Girl Scout Field Day. Brothers helped with registration and sold FMC license tags as a fund raising project. In addition, brothers also continued their support of the FMC athletic program.

PHI MU

On November 1, 1974, the Gamma Upsilon Chapter of the Phi Mu Fraternity became the first national sorority at Francis Marion. In so doing, Gamma Upsilon joined forces with the second oldest sorority in existence.

During '74-'75 sisters served in a wide variety of campus positions, including Cheerleaders, Ms. FMC and Court, Senators, and Class Officers. Throughout the year, Phi Mu lent a hand to the community by contributing to various charities and ushering for the FMC Theatre. Gamma Upsilon also raised money to support project HOPE, Phi Mu's national philanthropy.

Unique to Phi Mu is the Washboard Band. Sisters play a variety of "instruments," including brushes, washboards, pot tops, and kazoo's.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

The Theta Delta Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha spent a busy year of continued service to the College and the community.

PiKA began the year with eleven rushees, who as pledges organized a clean-up campaign. Pledges, Brothers, and interested students spent a Saturday cleaning up trash on streets in Florence. Other activities included helping with Girl Scout Day, collecting for charities, and participating in Dirt Alert. A special tribute was given to the founding father, Brooks McCall.

TAU UPSILON DELTA

New to Francis Marion for '74-'75 was Tau Upsilon Delta, which was chartered on November 11, 1974. It was organized to promote unity among students and athletes and to give members an avenue for campus involvement.

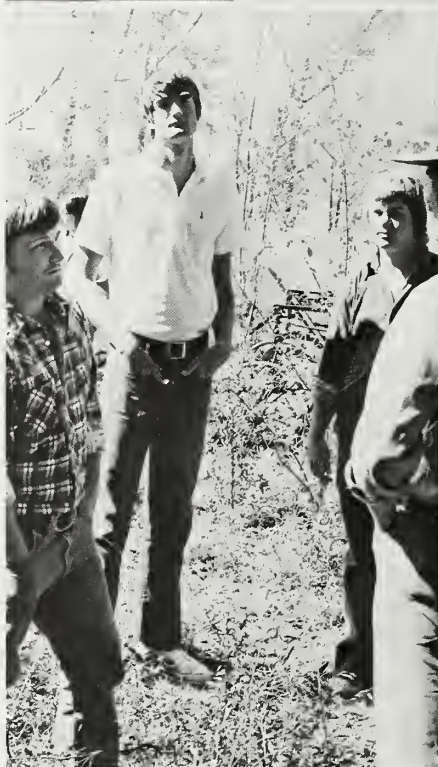

Commonly known as "TYD" the fraternity derives its name from the term "The Yard Dogs," originally used by baseball players as part of their interchange during games. An idea conceived by certain team members over two years ago, "TYD" is the result of active work by these same men.

"Yard Dogs" served the College in a variety of ways. Brothers participated in both intercollegiate basketball and baseball; served as referees during intramurals; entertained members of visiting teams, cheerleaders, and officials during half time; and served as campus guides.

"TYD" has already begun to make a name for itself in the community by helping with the Special Olympics and with Dirt Alert.

Officers: J. Dew, pres.; R. Ellison, v.p.; S. Fowler, sec.; P. Stokes, treas.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

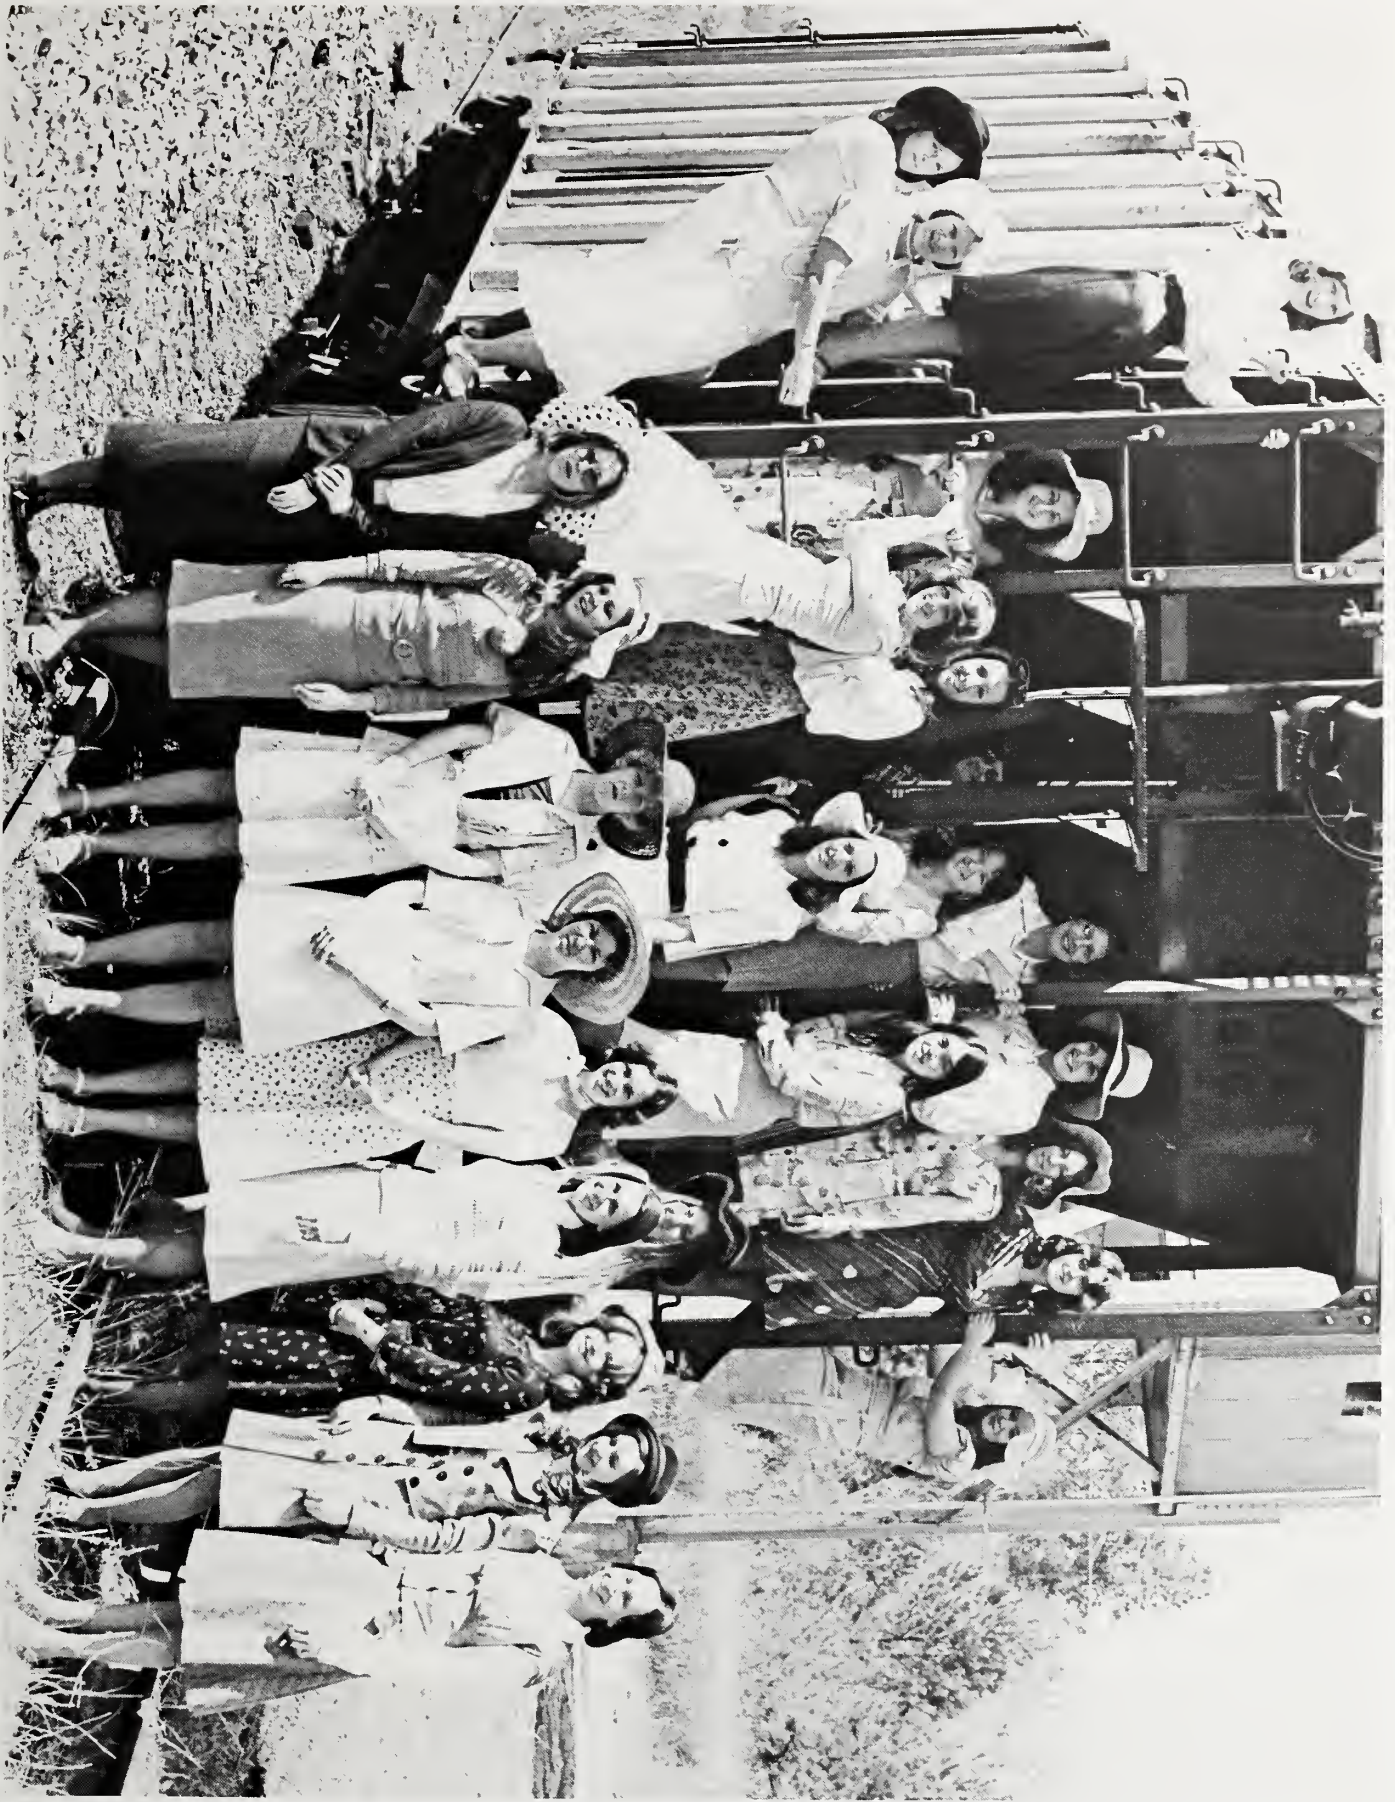

The Eta Chi Colony of Zeta Tau Alpha became the 167th national chapter of ZTA during formal ceremonies in November of 1974. During the summer, a delegate from Eta Chi attended ZTA's Diamond Anniversary Convention.

Activities of the year began with fall rush and eight resultant pledges. Sisters sponsored a carnival for the mentally retarded, worked with Bike-A-Thon and Walk-A-Thon, conducted campus tours, helped with registration, and collected money for charities. Eta Chi members served in a variety of campus positions: Senators, Homecoming Queen, Ms. FMC and Court, and Cheerleaders. During the holidays, Eta Chi held a covered dish supper, after which sisters exchanged gifts with their "secret Santa." In April, Terry Watson was designated ZTA's Most Outstanding Sister for South Carolina.

Officers: D. Connelly, pres.; T. Watson, M.A. Moody, v.p.; K. Andrews, sec.; D. Gaylor, treas. Advisor: B. Beckham.

PRESIDENT SMITH

VIG: Five years ago a new college was started. How have early decisions about the College materialized?

WDS: The progress we have made has exceeded our expectations. Our building program has moved quite successfully. If our present pace of acquiring library books is maintained, within the next two years, we will come close to 150,000 volumes. As for faculty and students, our 2300 students and the size and quality of our faculty is about what I expected, perhaps our faculty is even stronger than anticipated. And our early decisions about a balanced athletic program have been realized.

VIG: If you had the opportunity to begin FMC again, would you do anything differently?

WDS: I would make very few changes, except I would urge the building of the College Center and Founders Hall at least a year earlier.

VIG: Do you anticipate any more graduate programs in the future?

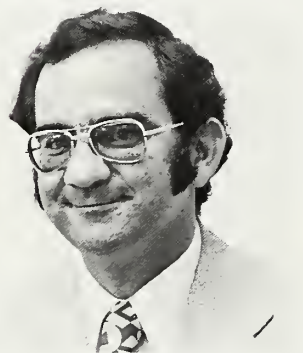

WDS: At this point we see FMC as principally an undergraduate institution. We recognize that we are the only public-supported, four-year college in this part of the State, and, therefore, we feel that we have a certain responsibility to the larger community. This is why we moved into a master's program in elementary education. I can't anticipate the future and what needs might exist, but we will carefully assess situations that develop in the future, and, if it appears that we are the institution to provide certain kinds of programs, then I am sure our faculty and staff will make the appropriate effort to offer such programs.

VIG: FMC is called "the College for the Future?" What immediate and far-reaching future do you foresee?

WDS: I anticipate that our broad admissions policy will remain unchanged as we strive to serve the largest number of people possible and that we will continue to carefully expand the curriculum. Perhaps the most significant thing is a new emphasis on continuing education, for people who are beyond the usual college age.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

During 1974-1975, the SGA went to great lengths to involve students in school activities. Patriot Week, dances, barbecues, and film festivals were sponsored to provide activities for members of the College family. FMC also achieved state wide notice during meetings of the State SGA.

At the October meeting, R. J. Reynolds was elected vicepres. of the Assembly.
